RAILWAY CONTRACTS ALLOWED TO STAND

WORK PROCEEDS ON TRANSCONTINENTAL LINE

Nothing Irregular in Awards Made by the Laurier Government

Ottawa, Oct. 20.—Hon. F. Cochrane, minister of railways, has withdrawn orders to contractors on the National transcontinental to stop work on the contracts awarded by the Laurier government subsequent to dissolution. Inquiry has shown that everything was regular and the contracts justified.

The veto still holds with regard to Quebec terminals, pending further inquiry by the ministry. Rodolphe Forget, of Montreal, wants another site chosen, though all others interested favored the site already selected.

J. D. McArthur, the contractor for the first 185 miles of the Hudson Bay railway, had an interview with the minister of railways to-day relative to proceeding with the work under his contract, and it is understood this will be gone on with, without any change of plans. At present Mr. McArthur is getting supplies ready and arranging for his construction camps at various points. Active construction will not begin till spring.

The final execution of contracts for the Intercolonial extensions in Nova Scotia, as recommended by the outgoing government, is still under consideration.

IDITAROD GOLD OUTPUT.

Banker Says It Will Amount to Nearly $3,500,000.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 20.—The output of the Iditarod gold camp during the season just closed will total close to $3,500,000, according to Thamos J. Nestor, an Iditarod banker, who has just arrived from Alaska for the winter. Mr. Nestor said that the Iditarod has made the best record of any gold camp in Alaska. There was a shortage of men near the end of the season, and operators paid wages of $7 a day as against $6 earlier in the summer. The present population of the camp is estimated at 2,500, and Mr. Nestor believes that at least 2,000 will spend the winter there. He looks for a prosperous season in Iditarod next eyar.

HON. J. J. FOY OFFERED SEAT ON BENCH

May Succeed Late Mr. Justice McMahon in Ontario High Court

Ottawa, Oct. 22.—It is understood that Hon. J. J. Foy, Attorney-General of Ontario, has been offered the appointment to the vacancy on the Ontario High Court bench caused by the death of Mr. Justice McMahon last spring. Should he decline the appointment will likely go to Houghton Lennox, member for South Simcoe, whose acceptance would provide a seat for Hon. W. T. White. The Judicial appointment should go, however, according to precendent to a Roman Catholic.

Hon. Robert Rogers has a new and unique scheme to propose to the government as a counterpart to Premier Borden's proposal to establish a Western division for federal railway commission. Mr. Rogers thinks that there should also be a western division for the federal Supreme Court. In favor of it he urges the saving of expense to western litigants who carry cases to the Supreme Court and who have to come to Ottawa at greatly increased cost of lawyers and witnesses fees. The minister of the interior believes his scheme is practicable and would be popular in Western Canada. It is hardly likely, however, to be endorsed by the government.

FLIGHTS BY DIRIGIBLES.

Berlin, Oct. 20.—Two Zeppelin airships, the most recently constructed, made long trips to-day. The Schwaken I. ascended at Duesseldorf at 4.45 o'clock yesterday morning en route for Berlin by way of Bremen and Hamburg. The military dirigible Zeppelin IX. left Baden Baden on Wednesday evening for a 20-hour trip through the Rhine valley to Coblenz and thence southward to the frontier region.

The Schwaben I. arrived here at 3.35 o'clock, having covered approximately 380 miles. The Zeppelin IX. completed her 20-hour trip at Baden Baden yesterday afternoon.

LAWSON ACQUITTED.

Plymouth, Mass., Oct. 20.—Thos. W. Lawson, the Boston financier, was ordered acquitted on a charge of disposing of property by a lottery, in the Superior court here to-day. The complaint was made by the Watch and Ward Society of Boston, after Mr. Lawson had presented a horse and carriage to the holder of a numbered ticket to the annual federation of the Marshfield Fair Association.

UNIQUE OBJECTION RAISED BY DEFENCE

ATTORNEYS' NEW MOVE AT M'NAMARA TRIAL

Would Bar Talesmen Who Attended Joint Funeral of Victims of Explosion

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 20.—The state challenged Talesman T. W. Adams at the opening of the McNamara trial today because of implied bias. The challenge was based on Adams' opposition to the death penalty and also what the California criminal code defines as "actual bias."

Desert craft, known more or less by nearly every man in the court room, was drawn upon by Attorney Darrow to explain circumstantial evidence. The cunning art of tracing men across great wastes with only the slenderest threads of clues was described by Darrow, and common frontier tragedies were touched upon.

"If you knew a man had a revolver of unusual calibre and another man was found dead with a bullet of that calibre in him, would you consider that circumstantial evidence?" he asked Talesman Cross.—"Yes."

"Or if you found a horse trail with three good shoes and one half shoe and knew of a horse with three good shoes and a half shoe?"—"Yes."

"Or the trail of a man showing only one heel and if you knew of a man who had lost one boot heel?"—"Yes."

That any man who attended the joint funeral of the Times victims, where sixteen coffins lay across the stage of a local theatre, and heard the oration made on that occasion by the Rev. Robert J. Burdette of Temple Baptist church, is not, and cannot be a fair and impartial juror, was the position taken to-day by counsel for the defence. It is said to be unique.

It was announced that where it can be learned that a talesman sat through the afternoon where woman after woman fainted under stress of emotional feeling induced by the grim surroundings, and by the eloquence of the speaker and a dozen professional nurses who were on hand to look after them, that talesman will be challenged for cause.

Whether Rev. Mr. Burdette will be summoned into court to refresh the memories of these men was not stated.

LETHBRIDGE GETS MEETING.

Colorado Springs, Oct. 20.—Lethbridge, Alberta, was selected to-night as the 1912 meeting place for the international dry farming congress. Salt Lake City withdrew when the Canadians pledged their support for that place in 1913.

The programme of the congress was of an educational nature to-day. Among the principal speakers were E. R. Parsons, of Parker, Ia.; L. R. Waldron, Dickinson, N. D., J. M. Bradshaw, Payton, Colo., and Dr. W. E. Taylor, Moline, Ills. The newly-formed international congress of farm women will elect officers to-day. Mrs. Bertha A. Stewart of Winnipeg, is slated for president.

JEWELRY STOLEN.

Portland, Ore., Oct. 20.—While trying on a fur coat in the store of H. L. Liebes & Co., furriers, yesterday afternoon, Mrs. O. H. Fithian was robbed of $2,500 worth of jewelry, carried in a velvet hand satchel, which she had placed on a stock table near the dressing mirror. A woman had been noticed who came into the store after the handbag was laid down, and disappeared quickly after a hasty examination of some mink neck pieces, which she had asked to see, while she stood near the table. A minute description of the woman was obtained.

RODGERS RESUMES FLIGHT.

Waco, Tex., Oct. 20.—Aviator C. P. Rodgers, learning of the death of Eugene Ely, at Macon, Ga., yesterday, made a minute inspection of his biplane to-day which probably saved him from death or serious accident, for he discovered damage that caused his departure from here to be deferred. Rodgers at 11:15 resumed his coast-to-coast flight, starting from this city for San Antonio, Tex.

EXPLOSION KILLS FOUR.

Rigaud, Que., Oct. 20.—Four men were blown to atoms at Curtis and Harvey's explosive factory, four miles from here, yesterday.

The mixing building went up with a terrific detonation, from causes as yet unknown.

The dead were all young married men.

RETAINS LEADERSHIP.

Toronto, Oct. 20.—At the meeting of the Liberal Association yesterday Hon. A. G. McKay was induced to retain the leadership of the opposition in the Ontario legislature.

LINER FOGBOUND.

Liverpool, Oct. 20.—The Allan liner Victorian, with Earl Grey and party aboard, is fogbound at the mouth of the Mersey.

CLERGYMAN IS ACCUSED OF MURDER

Arrested in Connection With Death of Young Woman at Boston

Boston, Mass., Oct. 20.—Following the discovery of new facts in connection with the death last Saturday of Avis Linnell, the young girl who is thought to have taken cyanide of potassium in the belief that it was medicine, police officials last night went to the home of Moses G. Edmonds, in Brookline, where Rev. C. V. T. Richeson, the Cambridge clergyman reported once to have been engaged to Miss Linnell, has been in retirement since the girl's death. They were unable to obtain admittance and it is said, found the telephone disconnected. A guard was placed around the house and this morning Richeson was arrested for the poisoning of Miss Linnell. The officers watched the Edmonds home for several hours for an opportunity to make the arrest.

A day or two before Miss Linnell's death, cards were issued for the wedding of Mr. Richeson and Miss Violet Edmonds, which was set for Tuesday.

Police Judge Murray to-day issued a warrant charging Richeson with first degree murder.

Avis Linnell, whose home was at Hyannis, Mass., was found dead in the bathroom of the Young Women's Christian Association home in this city last Saturday. At first it was believed that she had committed suicide, but later developments showed that she had unknowingly taken cyanide of potassium, given or sent to her by some other person. Miss Linnell had previously been a friend of Mr. Richeson and it was understood at Hyannis that an engagement existed. Later, howevr, the clergyman became engaged to Miss Edmonds, whose father is a trustee of the Newton Theological Institution, where Mr. Richeson studied for the ministry.

Mr. Richeson is thirty-five years of age and is a native of Rose Hill, Va. The arrest of Richeson as being instrumental in the death of Miss Linnell was on the statement of a druggist of Newton Centre, Mass.

LANDMARK DESTROYED.

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 20.—The old Fallsview hotel, a large frame structure overlooking the Spokane river and falls, was destroyed by fire this morning. The building was one of the landmarks of the city. Its escape from the flames that destroyed the business centre of Spokane in 1889 was one of the marvels of that conflagration. The hotel had, in recent years, been occupied by a Japanese colony. No lives are known to have been lost.

VANCOUVER MAYORALTY.

Vancouver, Oct. 20.—There promises to be some preliminary jockeying in regard to the mayoralty campaign. Alderman Ramsay announced this morning that he had Mayor Taylor's promise that he, the present mayor, would not be a candidate this year, but would support Ramsay, as he believed honor was coming to the latter in view of what he had done for Vancouver as an alderman.

The Trades and Labor Council last night decided not to form any labor party in the coming municipal elections.

TWELVE DROWNED IN IRON MINE

WATER FLOODS GALLERY WHILE MEN ARE WORKING

Foreman Loses His Life While Trying to Save Lives of Others

Hibernia, N. J., Oct. 20.—Twelve men were drowned here to-day when a blast destroyed a partition between two shafts in the iron mines of the Wharton Steel Company and let a great quantity of water, accumulated in an old shaft, flood the gallery where they were working.

All the victims are foreigners except Davis Slaight, foreman of the gang, who lost his life in trying to aid his men.

The blast was put off shortly after the men started work which loosened the partition and allowed the accumulated water to rush in. Less than a minute afterward the water was over the miners' heads and they were obliged to swim in the darkness toward the opening leading to a higher level. The place where they were at work was about 300 feet below the surface.

Slaight, the foreman, was in a position of safety when the deluge came, but he rushed into the submerged shaft to assist the drowning men and was caught there with the other victims.

HON. S. FISHER MAY RE-ENTER COMMONS

Member-Elect for Shefford Likely to Resign in Order to Provide Seat

Montreal, Oct. 20.—It is understood here that Hon. Sydney Fisher, minister of Agriculture under the Laurier Regime, will re-enter the political arena and that O. H. Boivin, member elect in Shefford, will resign his seat to make way for his return.

Nova Scotia Bye-Elections.

Halifax, N. S. Oct. 20.—The dates for the bye-elections caused by vacancies in the local legislature have been fixed for Wednesday, November 15, nominations on November 8. The vacancies are in Annapolis to confirm Dr. O. D. Daniels as attorney-general, Lunenburg where Hon. A. K. MacLean resigned to contest Halifax, and Digby where A. C. Wall resigned to run for the Dominion.

URGES INCREASED PAY.

Ottawa, Oct. 20.—J. D. Taylor is here interviewing the department of justice, urging increased salaries and number of guards at New Westminster penitentiary. He also wants improvements made to guard against further escapes.

BASEBALL GAME AGAIN POSTPONED

Giants and Athletics Unable to Play at Philadelphia on Account of Rain

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 20.—Jupiter Pluvius still holds the advantage in the series for the baseball championship of the world. For three days the rain-God prevented the Philadelphia Americans and the New York Nationals from getting together for their fourth game for the premier baseball honors.

To-day opened as dark and gloomy as did Wednesday and Thursday, and when the umpires saw that there was no prospect of the weather clearing, they again decided not to wait until later in the day and called the game off at 9.50 o'clock.

The game goes over until to-morrow. Umpire Klem, after an inspection of the field, gave it as his opinion that there will have to be an early and radical change in the weather if there is to be a game here to-morrow.

BAHAMAS AND CANADA.

Governor of Island Confers With Hon. G. E. Foster Regarding Trade Relations.

Ottawa, Oct. 20.—Hon. G. E. Foster, the new minister of trade and commerce, had an interview this morning with Sir William Grey Wilson, governor of Bahamas, when the question of relations between Canada and the Bahamas was cordially discussed. The Bahamas are really anxious to enter into closer relations with the Dominion, the islands having been on several occasions hard hit by changes in the United States traiff. The people are intensely loyal to the Empire and would willingly accept an arrangement which would strengthen their connection therewith. Organic connection seems to be contemplated by the islanders. Two courses seem to be open—to transfer the administering power from London to Ottawa, or to be content with commercial union, the islands accepting Canadian tariff in return for free trade between Canada and themselves. Governor Wilson is not here on an official mission.

SEARCH FOR SUSPECT.

Ellsworth, Kas., Oct. 20.—Posses to-day continued to search this and adjacent counties for Charles Marzyek, wanted in connection with the murder of the five members of the Showman family.

Local officers do not believe that the man arrested last night at Newkirk, Okla., is Marzyek. Photographs of the fugitive were sent to the Newkirk officials, but early to-day no word had been received from there as to whether the man held had been identified as the missing Slav. Many persons here now believe that Marzyek left for the south on a train several days ago.

STRIKE MAY SPREAD.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 20.—Labor leaders here announced to-day that the five allied crafts of shopmen now on strike along the Harriman railroads are preparing to strike on the Rock Island system. A strike vote is being taken by the men of the various crafts in the federation, according to the announcement. The proposed strike would add between 5,000 and 10,000 men to the number already out.

It is said in labor circles that other roads are likely to be involved in the strike before it is settled.

CHINESE TROOPS ARE FORCED TO RETREAT

Revolutionists Claim Great Victory Over Imperial Forces—Warship Hoists Rebel Flag—Missionaries Will Leave Yuen Nan.

Shanghai, Oct. 20.—The following message from Vice-admiral Winsloe, the senior British naval officer at Hankow, sent by wireless from a British vessel of Hankow, was received here this morning:

"All telegraph lines to Shanghai and Pekin are destroyed by fire last night for a distance of a mile beyond the settlement."

Another wireless message from Hankow at noon to-day and retransmitted over the land lines at Kiu Kiang, reaching there at four o'clock, says that the government troops retreated up Seventy-Mile Creek while the Chinese warships withdrew down the river out of sight. The revolutionaries claim a great victory.

Still another message says that the revolutionists at Hankow claim a great viceory over the Imperials. They declare that they captured the riverside and the railway station, after which all the Chinese warships retreated with the exception of one cruiser, which seceded to the rebels.

The retreat of the Imperialists at Hankow is confirmed in other dispatches from Kiu Kiang, which state that the Chinese gunboats are retreating to Kiu Kiang.

The conduct of the rebels at Hankow is reported to be exemplary. Martial law is being enforced.

To-day's advices of rebel successes at Hankow caused great jubilation among the Chinese here. Previously they had been downcast.

The run on the banks has stopped, but the native banks are unable to pay their outstanding cheques and business is at a standstill. Otherwise the situation is normal.

The North China Daily News, anticipating an ultimate imperial victory, in an editorial recalls the awful fate which traditionally awaits rebels in China which will be the slaughter of innocent kinsfolk with the object of blotting out tainted names. The events of the past week must lead to a genuine redress of grievances.

"China should remember the starving multitudes beggared by the Yangtze Kiang floods. Those with whom the rebels had been able to plead, fought and died," concludes the editorial.

Hankow Quiet.

Hankow, Oct. 20. — By wireless to Kiu Kiang, 2.45 p.m., relayed by telegraph to Shanghai, 4 p.m.)—The government troops retreated to 70-Mile Creek, beyond Hankow Fluvial. Revolutionists claim a great victory. Chinese warships retreated down the river out of sight of the settlement, which is quiet.

Reported Defeat of Warships.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 20.—Cable dispatches received from China to-day by the local Chinese papers confirm the news of a victory of the rebels at Hankow.

The Chinese Daily Press is informed by messages from Shanghai that the damaged river fleet, under the command of Admiral Sah Chen Teng, was so badly whipped that it had to withdraw from the scene of action.

One of the imperial gunboats surrendered to the rebels.

The revolutionists now report that they also have captured Wong Chow and King Chow, in the province of Hu Peh, near Hankow.

The Ching Sai Yat Po, a local Chinese daily paper, has news from Shanghai that the imperial troops stationed in the provinces of Chee Kiang, Honan and Ng Anhui, threaten to revolt in aid of the rebels. Strong preventative measures have been taken by the Pekin government to isolate these provinces by putting the ban on all war news. It is feared trouble will break out when the people learn of the rebel successes.

The military governor of King Chow is said to have committed suicide when the rebels took possession.

Reports from Canton province indicate strong revolutionary feeling. The Hongkongese are openly rejoicing over the news of revolutionary success, and an ominous change marked by a general suspension of business and commercial activities, hangs over the city of Canton.

Yuen Shai Kai is said to have assumed the supreme command of the northern army only on condition that he be given a free hand in directing the movements of the imperial troops.

Warning Sent to Foreigners.

Pekin, Oct. 20.—Fears which had prevailed here since yesterday were confirmed to-night by an Associated Press dispatch from Hankow which stated that the rebels were winning. The message was sent from Hankow early yesterday. It was carried by a messenger to the nearest open wire and received here this evening.

Up to 6 o'clock to-night the government and the foreign legations were in the dark as to developments in the south. The officials claimed that the absence of news was due to the fact that General Yin Tchang was holding the telegraph lines and not allowing any but his own messages to be handled.

They state that General Yin Tchang had completed the organization of his forces, and was rapidly pushing forward his troops, meanwhile contenting himself with reporting military details without furnishing further news of Wednesday's fight.

It was explained that the concentration of two imperial divisions had been completed last night at Kwang Shua, on the Pekin and Hankow railroad, 70 miles north of Hankow. It was understood that General Yin Tchang, the commander-in-chief, had reached Kwang Shua. Official assurances also were given that, although the situation had been grave recently, the outlook was now much improved, and the ultimate triumph of the government was certain.

A rumor was current that the rebels had cut the railroad behind the imperial troops and captured Siaokan, 30 miles north of Hankow.

Another native report was that the rebels held the railway tunnel at Sui Yank Chow, in the southern part of Honan province, and about 10 miles north of Hankow.

Attempts to establish wireless communication between the capital and Hankow have thus far been fruitless.

Consular dispatches from Yuen Nan report persistent rumors of disaffection among the imperial soldiers. Both the modern troops and the local regiments threaten to mutiny because they have not been paid and refuse to march against the rebels in Szechuen. The viceroy is said to have withdrawn the ammunition from the troops and to have fortified his yamen.

The French consul at Yuen Nan received a letter signed "War Minister of the Revolutionists," recommending that foreigners leave the country while there was yet time. In consequence the missionaries have been warned by couriers and are preparing to leave.

A Mohammedan rebellion is reported imminent in Kan Su, the scene of the Mohammedan revolt of 1858-75.

The belief is strong here that a serious defeat of the government forces, as seems probable from to-night's dispatches from Hankow, would have such an effect on the country generally that it would fall ripe into the hands of the revolutionists.

The legations to-day sent a strong joint protest to the government against the prohibition of cipher messages, which is completely dislocating trade and threatens to upset the money market and cause a dangerous panic.

STEAMSHIP AGENT DIES FROM WOUNDS

C. B. Guptill, Attacked by Robber in Office at Skagway, is Dead

Vancouver, Oct. 20.—News of the death of Clyde B. Guptill, agent for the Alaskan Steamship Company at Skagway, yesterday, following an attack by men who robbed the office, as reported yesterday, came as a shock to a large circle of shipping men here, for Mr. Guptill was well known in steamship matters and had served on many vessels. He began his steamboating career on the old Port Townsend. His next ship was the Lydia Thompson, on which craft he served for three years, plying to San Juan Island. He left her to join the Dirigo on the Seattle-Skagway run, about 12 years ago, and then he went to the steamer Dolphin.

When the Jefferson was placed on the Skagway run, Mr. Guptill was appointed purser and stayed with her until three years ago, when he was made agent for the Alaska Steamship Company at Skagway. He acted at one time as agent for the Inland Navigation Company and when that concern brought the steamer Iroquois from the Lakes to Puget Sound, he made the trip around Cape Horn with the vessel.

Mr. Lou Hansen, freight solicitor here for the Tacoma-Vancouver Steamship Company, says:

"Guptill was a man of exceptional nerve, though small in build. It is certain that he put up a fight, for he would never allow the office to be robbed without a struggle. He was held in the highest esteem by all who knew him and was considered a most efficient company servant. He will be remembered by thousands of Alaskans who travelled with him during the years he was on the northern run."

SEEKS REWARD.

Anderson, Ind., Oct. 20.—Herschell Baily, a clerk, yesterday sued Ira C. Peck, a wealthy farmer, for $5,000, alleging that he gave up three pints of blood through a transfusion which saved the farmer's life. Bailey refused to accept a cheque for $40 offered in payment.

INSPECTOR OF LEGAL OFFICES APPOINTED

Henry C. Hanington to Assume Office November 1 and Reorganize Registry Office

Henry C. Hanington, barrister and solicitor, has been appointed inspector of legal offices for the province and will commence the duties appertaining to that office on November 1. The office of inspector of legal offices was previously held by the deputy attorney-general, J. P. McLeod, who since the retirement of H. A. Maclean, K. C., from the office of deputy attorney-general, has filled both offices.

One of the first inspections Mr. Hanington will undertake will be that of the provincial land registry offices, in which many reforms are urgently needed. He will devote his attention towards reorganizing that department, and will give his attention and time exclusively to the duties of his public position. The appointment is published in the current issue of the Provincial Gazette.

The Gazette contains the announcement of the appointment of James Campbell, Revelstoke, to be a member of the board of licensing commissioners for that city, in place of S. A. Spears, resigned.

A formal application for the incorporation of Duncan as a city municipality is published in the Gazette. In conjunction therewith an application is being made by the Cowichan municipality for a reduction of its limits.

Other appointments gazetted are: Dr. G. E. Richards, to be resident physician at Stewart; William Norman Winsby, Victoria, inspector of public schools from November 1; Albert J. Goodstone, barrister, Vancouver, to be a commissioner for taking affidavits; William Allison, Hazelton, a stipendiary magistrate with small debts court jurisdiction within that portion of the Skeena electoral district not within the limits of Prince Rupert.

GREAT OPPORTUNITY FOR HISTORICAL WORK

Authority on History of B. C. Sees Great Future Before Provincial Library

Since the acquisition of the library of Mr. Justice Martin by the province, his honor Judge Howay, who was, with Dr. Newcombe, selected to assess the value when the government completed the purchase, has the largest private library in the province dealing with the history of the Pacific Northwest, more particularly that part of the Pacific coast north of the Columbia river.

His honor is now in Victoria taking a case for Judge Lampman, and in the course of a chat last evening he pointed out what a magnificent future the provincial librarian, E. O. S. Scholefield, had in collecting and arranging the documents and papers dealing with the early history of the province as soon as he has the facilities afforded by the new building, which is to be the first portion of the parliament buildings extension.

As yet only the fringe of the question has been touched, and in order adequately to trace the history of this coast from the first coming of the white man they must go back long before the voyages of Capt. Meares and Capt. Vancouver, to the stirring pages of the Spanish occupation, and he believed the provincial library would require copies of the collections at Seville and Madrid, as well as certain papers from the Vatican, before they could have anything like an adequate account of the Pacific coast in the sixteenth century. These documents, of which in the Seville case he had secured copies, contained a mass of lengthy reports from governors, and intermingled with the dry reports of official acts were items throwing much light on the deeds and explorations of these early pioneers.

The British foreign office would also afford much valuable information of the conditions in the eighteenth century, and he believed the province could so make the provincial library a treasure house of the history of the country north of the Columbia river that it would attract students from all parts of the world, and become to the far west what the Wisconsin collection is to the middle west.

Referring to the action of the government in securing the Martin collection, Judge Howay gave some instances to show that the price of books dealing with the subject had advanced enormously in the twenty years during which he has been collecting. Of some publications he had copies of every edition, in fact he had passed from the region of bibliophile to bibliomaniac in some features of this study.

His honor is at the present time contributing to a history of British Columbia to be published in a series dealing with the Canadian provinces and to which Dr. Newcombe is supplying the ethnological section. Referring to the unveiling of the Simon Fraser bust, at which he made the principal speech, during the New Westminster exhibition, he said they were glad to complete a work which had hung fire since the monument was unveiled three years ago at the centenary of the great explorer, and the most significant feature was that the sculptors had made a satisfactory bust from profile pictures only, a most difficult task.

SIKH IMMIGRATION INTO THIS PROVINCE

British Campaigners' Association Adopts Resolutions Concerning Old Soldiers

At the meeting of the British Campaigners' Association held last evening two resolutions were submitted and carried dealing with the immigration of British Indians, more particularly Sikhs, who have served in the Imperial army, into Canada on the same terms as other immigrants, and for the admission of the wives of those who have already arrived and settled in British Columbia. The following resolution was moved by Beaumont Boggs:

"That in the opinion of the British Campaigners' Association it is in the interest of the Empire that all British subjects who have served Great Britain in India or other regiments should be admitted with their families to and privileged to reside in Canada upon the same conditions as any British subject coming from Great Britain or her colonies, the only condition being that they have a proper discharge and furnish proof of good character."

He thought, he said, in moving it that the resolution would come better from a Canadian than one whose birthplace was in another part of the Empire. He thought the Dominion of Canada ought to be ashamed of itself for the way in which the Indian soldiers had been treated who sought entry at Victoria and Vancouver. Their treatment contrasted strongly with that of the men from eastern Europe, who had come in at the eastern ports. In the address that week before the Canadian Club Sir Andrew Fraser had shown what a large percentage of the inhabitants of India were agriculturists, and he believed they would make excellent citizens. They would note the resolution was so drawn that the government was not asked to admit natives of India generally, but only those who had secured an honorable discharge from their regiments. They could have no better settlers than those who had been under the discipline of British officers, who had been in contact with the discipline of a British regiment, and who were the very cream of the Indian population. These men would adapt themselves to their surroundings in this country, and they should be allowed to bring their wives and families in at once. The present system was putting a premium on immorality. He believed these ex-soldiers who had proved their loyalty should be entitled to exercise their rights at the polls as other British citizens.

Capt. Rant seconded the motion, as one who had 16 years' experience in India, and said that while he would be against the introduction of natives of India generally, the old soldiers should be admitted because they came from a good class, and were of a different race to the Bengalis.

Dr. Sunda Singh said he came from Lahore, and a circle of 100 miles round that city would include the birthplaces of three-fourths of the natives of India in this country. He traced the influx beginning in 1905, and of its ceasing in 1908, while the Dominion adopted such regulations as practically prohibited any further immigration, and said the so-called Hindus, who were not true Hindus at all, had no protection like the Chinese societies gave their members. At the present time there were three men waiting in Hongkong to come over who had land in this province, but could not come back under the present regulations. They were sending a deputation to Ottawa and if it failed there, they would go on to London, and if no redress was secured from the Indian office it was more than likely that the men would go to their native hills, and where the agitation would end none could say.

Col. Elmslie, Col. Eardley-Wilmot, Col. Layard and Major Wilson followed, bearing tribute to the services of the Sikhs in India in the Mutiny. Sgt. Beckton, of the city police, testified to the little trouble they gave the police here.

Capt. Clive Phillips-Wolley said the deputation to Ottawa would not petition for a privilege, but for a right. It was the only politic thing to be done, apart from a sense of gratitude, in view of the agitation which might follow. They ought certainly to have the same privileges as the Japanese.

After the resolution was carried, another was put as follows and also carried:

"That the wives and families of natives of India now resident in Canada be admitted at once."

The resolutions will be forwarded to Lieut.-Governor Paterson, with a view to being transmitted to Ottawa.

Among other matters discussed was the annual dinner, to be this year in memory of the South African campaign, which was provisionally fixed for November 21 at the Alexandra Club.

BANDITS RAID TOWN.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Oct. 20.—A special from Cokeville, Wyo., says that five men rode into that town last evening and for nearly an hour held the place at their mercy. It is the belief in Cokeville that two members of the party were the Whitney Brothers, who have been terrorizing parts of Southern Idaho and Western Wyoming, and for whom a search is now on.

The men made their appearance first at the Wyoming saloon, and during the course of their visit took a shot at the bartender.

Going out on to the street, they ordered the residents to their homes, and while enforcing their orders with their firearms, Peter H. Anderson received a bullet in the leg. Later the visitors rode to the office of County Attorney Reynolds and took several shots at him, but none was effective. Just before leaving the town they rode to the Fuller saloon and fired a volley through the front windows. So far as known no one was hurt there.

Before the townspeople could organize for resistance, the visitors rode away.

WINTER ECZEMA

CURED BY ZAM-BUK

Mrs. P. W. Drummond, of Thetford Mines, Que., writes: "Every fall, as soon as cold weather set in, my little daughter's face and hands would be covered with rough watery patches, which before long turned into scabby sores. These would itch and smart terribly, and would remain on her face from fall until spring. This happened for three years, and we could get nothing which did her any good, until a short time ago I started using Zam-Buk, and now, after using half a box of same the sores have entirely disappeared, leaving her skin as smooth and clear as it could possibly be."

Zam-Buk is also a sure cure for ulcers, abscesses, ringworm, blood-poison, scalp sores, chapped hands, cold sores, and all skin diseases and injuries. 50c. a box, all stores.

ENGINEER DIES SUDDENLY.

John Allen, Who Had Been in C. P. R. Service for 29 Years, Passes Away at Vancouver.

Vancouver, Oct. 20.—After 29 years of steady service on the C. P. R., 25 of which were spent on the Pacific division, John Allen, of this city, one of the best known railway engineers in the West, died suddenly yesterday. On Wednesday he was on his regular passenger run between Vancouver and Mission and appeared to be well and hearty.

The late Mr. Allen was born near Sarnia, Ont. He came out to British Columbia a quarter of a century ago. For some time his headquarters were at Kamloops but for the past two and a half years he was on a run from Vancouver to North Bend and then from Vancouver to Mission. He leaves living at the Merrill Mansions, 1070 Haro street, a brother, Alex, chief train dispatcher at Calgary, a brother, Arthur and two sisters, one in Toronto, and the other in Los Angeles, Cal. Mr. Allen belonged to the Royal Arch Chapter of Masons in Vancouver and to the Knights of Pythias at Kamloops and was also a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen. The funeral arrangements are in the hands of the Masons.

EIGHT HUNDRED MANCHUS MASSACRED

Chinese Revolutionists Seize Arsenal—Set Fire to Native Quarter of Town

Shanghai, Oct. 20.—Arrivals from Hankow report that 800 Manchus were massacred there. To make sure of the identity of their victims, the rebels took advantage of the slight difference in the Chinese and Manchu pronunciations.

When a suspect was taken he was ordered to count and the crucial test was his pronunciation of the numeral "P." which in Chinese is liushili.

The viceroy of Nanking telegraphs that the city is as quiet as usual. The government has cancelled the order for six steamers of the China Merchant's Navigation Co. to proceed to Tien Tsin for transportation of troops up the Yangtze river. It is expected that the Imperial troops required will be able to reach Hankow more expeditiously by the railroad, which is in the hands of the government.

Rebels Captured Arsenal.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 20.—Shanghai messages to one of the Chinese papers here stated that the rebels had captured the arsenal at Ching Kiang, Kiang Su province, last Tuesday night, and set fire to the native quarter of the town. It also was stated that Kiang Si had fallen into the hands of the revolutionists, but this was denied by government officials.

A cable from Hankow said that Admiral Shah, of the imperial navy, had ordered the northern and southern fleets to assemble in that region. It added that twenty government ships had arrived at Wu Chang.

It was stated here that Fong Yu, the Chinese aviator, who made a successful flight at Oakland, Cal., several months ago, had been placed in charge of the imperial aviation school at Pekin. Fong met disaster in a machine of his own constructing in Oakland, but was successful later in an American-built air craft.

Pekin, Oct. 20.—The German legation at Pekin denied the report that German troops had been engaged in the fighting in the streets of Hankow.

The board of communication has received dispatches saying that Siackan in Hu Peh province has been captured by rebels.

A report has reached here that imperialists have refused to detrain at Hankow. Other reports say the Chinese gunboats took little part in Wednesday's fighting because a direct fire would have endangered their own troops, while a flank fire would have involved a bombardment over the foreign concessions.

The American attaches, Lieut.-Colonel William D. Beach and Capt. J. H. Reeves, have returned to Pekin because they were not permitted to accompany the troops to Hankow. They say the orderliness and precision with which the troop trains are being sent southward is admirable. The food supply seemed abundant, and the troops were in good spirits. The rapidity with which 20,000 men have been moved has surprised the military attaches. The Chinese army, they declare, seems to have learned the lessons of modern tactics well, but fighting spirit is lacking.

That the rebels did not advance along the railway prior to the arrival of imperial troops may not have been owing to lack of initiative but to the possibility that the revolutionists would prove disloyal.

Reports that the infant emperor has been taken to Tien Tsin and secretly placed in the foreign concession are groundless.

The Japanese cruisers and gunboats in the Yangtse Kiang are establishing a wireless service from Hankow. Japanese torpedo boats now at Tien Tsin may connect with Tokio, as well as with Hankow by wireless.

The American legation has asked the safe transportation of Americans from the Pekin-Hankow railway zone, should disorders develop.

Lieut.-Colonel Beach, in describing conditions in Hu Peh, says there is a good crossing on the Yangtse, five miles north of Wu Chang, and it should not be difficult for the imperialists to cross under the protection of gunboats. He was informed that the rebels probably have 12,000 soldiers.

An edict issued yesterday gives Yuan Shi Kai as viceroy of the disaffected province authority over the war minister, Yin Tchang, who is now serving as a general in the field.

Strict censorship was established yesterday on all trans-provincial messages regarding military movements, and also on all code messages except consular and legation dispatches.

The foreign railway management of the Hankow-Pekin line claims that it succeeded in withdrawing all but a single locomotive before the rebels crossed from Wu Chang and Han Yang to Hankow. Officials of the Chinese foreign board reiterate that the capture of Wu Chang is now only a matter of days. The attitude of the Chinese here towards foreigners cannot be criticised, and not the slightest danger is anticipated.

Britain Neutral.

London, Oct. 20.—The British government has decided on an attitude of absolute neutrality in China, and will limit British action necessary for the protection of the lives and property of her citizens.

Destroyers Sail.

Okosuka, Japan, Oct. 20.—The Japanese torpedo boat destroyers Shikimi and Makigumo sailed for Hankow yesterday.

THINKING THEMES

BY DR. FRANK CRANE

On a fine June day, I rode out with my accompanist (I think that is a very good name for a wife) from Florence City up the long, winding, walled in Settignans road to the Villa Capponcina, where Gabriele d'Annunzio, like burning Sapho, "loved and sang," and where his chattels were now being sold at auction, to pay his debts, his accompanist in said Villa, having been, from all accounts, both varied and costly. So much useless furniture I never hope to see. I have had many manias in my time, but fate has kindly spared me the chairs and tables madness. I have been in houses where it was all one could do to thread his perilous way through a Cretan maze of jars, pedestals, statues, divans and stools, not to mention candle-sticks and toppling marble jimcracks. Why does a human being want to live in a second-hand store? Why constipate this free life with clinging rubbish? Here in the mess and mountains of d'Annunzio's clutter, my mind reverted to Thoreau, and his hut by Walden Pond, where he had no keepsakes but one pretty piece of stone he found, but which he threw away because it was too much trouble to dust it. I loathe walls loaded with pictures, floors encumbered with shin-breaking impediments, and tables crowded with books and albums. The height and access of this disease of things is the old country. What not, with shells and china dogs, and its rich relation, the city case of parlor bric-a-brac. I prefer the Japanese fashion of having but one case or picture at a time in the living room, and keeping the remainder in the warehouse.

MISSION PROBLEM IN CANADIAN WEST

Appeal to Christian Men Was Sounded at Convention at Vancouver

Vancouver, Oct. 20.—A vigorous appeal to Christian men to get into the battle line of the men's missionary movement was sounded at the convention yesterday. Stirring addresses were delivered by Dr. John R. Mott, Rev. R. J. Wilson, and Sir Andrew Fraser at the evening session.

"It is not the number of people; it is not advantageous geographical situation nor the great and successful commercial enterprises that spell success or failure to a nation," said Dr. Mott. "It is the character of the people. And in associating themselves with the missionary movement young men blend the dictates of patriotism with the highest churchmanship."

The great trouble at the present time, continued Dr. Mott, was that we were missing Christ's likeness and presenting to the world a fractional Christ. Men of wide powers of discernment; men of balance, not fanatics, were required at the present time.

The racial problem was one of the greatest that confronted the church. It could not be dealt with by segregation or by amalgamation, nor by domination. It could only successfully be coped with by the spread of Christianity in the purest form. It would take great men to lead the forces in this campaign of friendliness with men of a different race and color.

"We must have men in Canada, great men in Canada, to develop a base from which to wage a world-wide war," he continued. "The present opportunity for leadership was an unique and a pressing one and called for the best thought of the best men."

"For every moral height we have a corresponding depth," said Rev. Mr. Wilson. "We have no finer men in Canada than those who have found their way to the Pacific seaboard. Yet side by side with the finest and most heroic manhood was discovered a more flambuoyant degradation than anywhere else in Canada. There were certain conditions particular to British Columbia which made the missionary movement particularly a necessity in this province. Development work was proceeding apace. Links of the second transcontinental line were being opened up, and there was promise of a great growth in population within the next few years. Vice was too often winked at. The home touch was lacking in many of the communities of this province."

"The growing unity of the church of Christ" was the significance of the World Missionary conference at Edinburgh, according to Sir Andrew Fraser.

"It was an exceptionally wonderful experience to be able to attend that convention, after so many years passed in the east," said Sir Andrew. "There were gathered together men known as the foremost in the age in Christian work and they were all gathered together from so many different churches to discuss one subject before which all other minor differences of creed pale to insignificance the propagation of the gospel of the living God."

TRIED TO BRIBE JAILER.

Doctor Now in Jail at Portland Offered Officer $2,500.

Portland, Ore., Oct. 19.—According to the story of Dave Fuller, night jailer at the jail, who has had charge of Dr. John Grant Lyman, who is awaiting transfer to California on a charge of conspiracy in connection with his escape from a hospital in Oakland, he was offered $2,500 by Lyman last night if he would permit him to walk out of the jail and was promised an additional $1,000 if he reached Vancouver, B. C., safely.

Fuller told the story to a deputy United States official, who communicated the facts to United States Marshall Leslie M. Scott. Lyman was immediately ordered transferred to a steel cell, his crutches were taken from him and other precautions to frustrate any possible attempt of Lyman to escape. Lyman will be taken to California tonight. Owing to the boldness of the prisoner he will be carefully watched from the moment he leaves the county jail here until he is turned over to the authorities in California.

POLITICS AND TRUSTS.

There are threatening clouds in the political horizon of the neighboring republic, and the centre of the political party which has as a tradition the maintenance of protective tariffs is taxed in the effort to solve the problems of self-protection. The original Dingley tariff, followed by the Payne-Aldrich tariff, fostered trusts, mergers and amalgamated interests to an extent that the throat of the prosperity for the consuming classes and wage-earners was cut from ear to ear. Before these people bled to death, however, the Sherman anti-trust law was put into operation, and its strenuous enforcement created consternation among the business interests that fell under its ban. Mercilessly the trusts and combines have been pursued, and the complaint is made by the organs of these interests that, once having tasted blood, the trust-breakers became intoxicated with a mania for persecution and carried the work of demolition so far as to unsettle the sound business enterprises of the country.

The Democratic victory at the last congressional election added fuel to the temper and a general slaughter of high tariffs was proposed. The victory revived the flagging zeal of the enemies of tariffs, and the energy they have exhibited in flouting everything like a combination in restraint of trade or a merger for the undue exaltation of profits or a railway freight rate that bore unequally on the public has earned for them the odius name of muck-rakers. Against these the trust organs cry out; they pour anathemas upon them and attribute all the economic unrest, labor trouble, wage reduction and generally threatened hard times to their interference with established business conditions.

There is doubtless much truth in the assertion that the trust-breakers are responsible for the present dubious conditions in the world of commerce and labor in the United States. Given control of the productive industries and natural resources of a nation and the trusts together with the commercial organizations can make or unmake the prosperity of a nation. Interference with their plans incites them to reprisals. They can dictate, absolutely, the conditions under which the producer of articles of commerce, whether natural or artificial products, shall sell his wares. When commercial organization is perfected it can buy from the farmer at its own price and sell to others at a price fixed by itself. It can employ the laborer at the wages it decides and can tell him to go to work or remain idle. It is absolutely the dictator of the welfare and even the destinies of men, and it never allows any other consideration than its own interests to determine its policy with respect to others in its power.

The masterly grip of the trust is upon the political organization; it is upon this it depends for its tenure of life. It makes and unmakes presidents and legislatures, always with a view to its own interests, and, in the making or unmaking of these it is absolutely reckless of the public welfare. It starves men by denying them employment, it unsettles the commerce of a nation, it pinches the debtor, refuses credit to the industrial struggler and guides the stream of money in all its eddying curents, only sure that it must in the end return to its own coffers.

It was the resistance of this spirit that unmade Roosevelt and made Taft, and is now, in its turn, unmaking Taft and looking again to Roosevelt—or someone else as yet unnamed—to help it keep its face. It not only frightens the masses by threatening starvation, but it controls the business interests of the nation and compels the vast dependent mass of humanity to vote for its candidates and prolong its man-devouring reign. It has tied up the money of the country, discharged employees from every vocation or occupation in life and frightened the country with financial panic, all to serve its own consuming ends. For a year before a presidential election it has the nation by the ears, and when it is time to vote everybody is usually ready to vote any way these interests may dictate if they will but let the people have credit and bread.

The American people have taken up arms in revolt against this tyranny. They have learned in a hard school the lesson that the tariffs are at the foundation of the special privileges resulting in these cruelly used powers. They are demanding the razing of the walls that keep food out of the country and beyond their financial reach, and that keep them in slavery to those who control the tariffs.

There can be no doubt that the device of reciprocal trade relations with Canada was designed by President Taft in order to effect a compromise in the political crisis which had arisen. Though it was but half what the people demanded, it was a qualified reversal of the Republican policy, and it was with the hope of saving his party from the overwhelming annihilation which theratened it that Taft thought to stay the people's onslaught on protective tariffs by ameliorating the conditions of that class that was in actual suffering and distress. Had he been able to do so he would have appeased their wrath for a time, and his party lieutenants also saw it in this light. The defeat of reciprocity in Canada has put an end to these hopes, and the whole threatening avalanche must be propped in some other way. The Democratic free list will come back and both men and measures will go down in the conflict that is inevitable.

That is why the "Interests" were so anxious for the defeat of the reciprocity agreement in Canada. Had both countries gone solid for freer trade the "Interests" would have been smashed. As it is, they are still safe for the period of Canada's folly. With their vast vested interests in this country they will not fail to introduce the same conditions of economic slavery here that are being driven out of their own country.

It took the United States twenty years to learn the lesson from their suffering. Shall Canada be so long in learning the same happy lesson from the same unhappy experience?

Shall Canada become unsettled excepting on such terms as the "Interests" may dictate while the United States recovers her commercial and industrial stability with the paralysis of their power? These are questions which the political economists of the Dominion will ask. It may be that Canada will be wiser when her people see the beginnings of these conditions and will check them before the country becomes wholly the creature of vested interests driven out of other countries.

PROVINCIAL ARCHIVES.

An interesting brochure has recently been issued from the government bureau over the signature of Mr. E. O. S. Scholefield, provincial archivist, being a report for the year 1910. Mr. Scholefield, who was placed in charge of the provincial archives in July of last year, sets forth the manner in which he has arranged and classified the historic documents now in possession of the government, whether from official or private sources, and the collection is shown to be one of great value to those who desire authentic records of the early life and history of the province, particularly of the colonial period.

For the purpose of indexing and classification, Mr. Scholefield reports, he has divided the history of the province into four periods, the first of which he calls the period of apocryphal voyages and explorations, dating from 1578 to 1774; the period of discovery, exploration and the fur trade, 1774 to 1849; the colonial period, reaching to 1871, when the united colonies of Vancouver Island and British Columbia entered the confederation of the provinces, and the modern period, from then to the present time. There is a comprehensive review of the contents of the documents in the archives which relate to these several periods.

The Archivist has divided the documents into "official" and "unofficial" classes, and he says: "While it is true that no adequate history can be written without the aid of the official documents, which are and always must be the backbone of the narrative historical, yet the material of the second class must enter largely into the composition of national chronicles, and for the reason that it embraces the documents called, for the lack of a better term, 'human.'" In this class figure "the diary, the private letter, the memoir, the journal and the reminiscence, with all their rich sidelights upon men and events and which cannot be neglected if close adherence to truth is desired."

The Archivist recommends the prosecution of the work of collecting records and memoirs from members of the "Old Guard" who may be still living and whose recollections of early events may be made valuably contributive to the data of the modern period.

The appendices contain a complete index of the papers and documents, and these are so arranged that reference to a particular period may be readily found. Not only does the brochure contain valuable comment upon the epochal events in the history of the province, but the publication of the catalogue is invaluable as affording a knowledge of the authentic documents which may be reached through the archives. The report should be widely circulated, so that the compiler of modern narratives may be secure in his reference to historic facts. The Times makes this extended reference to the publication in order that the issuance of the report may be made widely known.

The bull that held up the commission on taxation in the Tulameen valley and challenged their auto to all but a standstill, evidently had some views on the incidence of taxation which he wished to lay before the commission.

One of the members of the Manufacturers' Association said in the annual meeting that to increase the British preference would result in a lower standard of living for the Canadian people. No doubt he meant that to lower the prices of woollens and cotton goods so that people could dress more cheaply would make them feel that they were wearing cheaper clothes. There is something in the argument, for half the pleasure of wearing good clothes lies in the consciousness that they cost a lot of money. How really clever this manufacturer was to discern this elusive trait in human nature.

Mr. Henry Chaplin, an English Tory foodtaxer, referring to the result of the Canadian elections, asks, "What is England going to do now?" It is not easy to say what England is going to do, but it is a dead sure thing that if Mr. Chaplin's friends come over to Canada and ask the Canadian Manufacturers' Association to permit the Borden government to reduce the duties on British manufactured exports to this country they will receive such an answer as will make them wonder what they were thinking about and cause them to look around and wonder where they are at.

"The interests of the city are chiefly business interests; and honest and efficient men, men of experience, should be selected to control them. The decent and intelligent element should take a larger and more constant interest in municipal elections. Many who have large business affairs which they look after very carefully pay no attention whatever to their duties as citizens. They allow the practical politicians to have things their own way, and are only roused to their duty when the evils of bad government become unendurable. We cannot have good local government unless the best citizens do their part in securing and maintaining it."—The Independent.

It is amusing beyond description to read in the Tory Ottawa dispatches that the new Borden ministers find things left in such bad shape in the departments that they must call in experts to help them set matters right. Only one of the Borden ministers ever saw the inside of a department before being picked up off the street and thrust into the responsibility of office. The more perfect they find the condition of the departments the less able will they be to understand them. And now the country must make fat jobs for "experts" to teach the new ministers how to run their departments under the excuse that these are required to straighten things out. Too transparent! They are a mass meeting of incompetents and are showing the white feather already.

—An invitation has been given by Col. Wadmore, D. O. C., to the local Hindu colony to form a company of a Sikh regiment to be raised among the old soldiers of the Indian army who have made British Columbia their home. It is believed that several companies could easily be raised in the province from among the men working in the lumber mills. At the time of the riots in Vancouver in 1907, when an attempt was made to organise all the Oriental residents against the whites, the Hindu population stood firm, and refused to falter in their allegiance.

She expects to hold a business meeting in the near future, at which the various details of the organization will be discussed. It is Mrs. Halliday's desire to make the exchange a co-operative one, and no better idea than that could be advanced for the womanly undertaking.

—The Unity Club met last night to organize for the winter and elected the following officers: John Gunn, president; James Coates, vice-president; F. P. Rann, secretary-treasurer. These, with Rev. —Harry Hewitt, who, through the accidental discharging of a friend's gun while on a hunting trip last Sunday, was so seriously injured, wishes to thank those persons who helped him when he needed assistance so badly. He is now at the St. Joseph's hospital and is reported as doing nicely. It is thought that the injured leg may be saved after all.

—Thomas Russell, agent of the S. P. C. A., reports to the police that a valuable dog (bull terrier) belonging to parties on Rose street, met an inhuman death day before yesterday by strychnine poisoning. Two splendid collies were found dying in a vacant lot near the Fairfield estate on Oliphant street the same day, both having taken poison. The police shot a dog on Cook street yesterday afternoon to put it out of its pain, it having been poisoned.

—The Victoria Debating Society held its first annual meeting in the Pemberton block last evening and the following officers were elected: Pres., W. B. Shaw (re-elected); vice-pres., W. —The president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, Mrs. Willis croft, has issued invitations for a reception to the new members of the society. The reception, to be held in the Assembly hall at the Y. M. C. A. building, will be very informal and it is hoped that it will be largely attended. Tuesday, October 24, at 8.15, is the date. The society has received over two hundred new members in the past three months and the membership is now four hundred. A good programme is being prepared for the evening's entertainment.

—On Monday afternoon last Mrs. Joseph Carmichael, secretary of the Anti-Tuberculosis Society, read a report to the members on her recent visit to the Tranquille sanitarium. She explained that the visit was without notice, and everything was found in good order and very clean. The general bareness of the interior of the building was a great contrast to the exterior, so beautiful in lawn, shrubbery and trees. She thought for the comfort of the sick that more than the bare necessities of furnishings should find their way into the rooms to make them look a little more cheerful. Mrs. Carmichael reported a number of the patients, especially men, without the proper clothing to keep them warm during the cold winter months and without friends upon whom to rely for funds with which to buy them. Mrs. F. S. Barnard presided over the meeting and those attending were Mesdames Cole, Munn, McB. Smith, Wiley, Wilkerson and Carmichael.

—Many persons who are interested in the Salvation Army will hear with regret that word has been received by Staff Captain Hayes, Captain Knudson and Lieut. Reid, of their transfer east. On the last Sunday in the month a farewell reception will be tendered the officers, after which they will proceed to Ontario. Ensign and Mrs. MacDonald, Guelph, Ontario, have been appointed to the vacancy and they will be formally welcomed to Victoria on Thanksgiving night. Both Staff Captain Hayes and Lieut. Knudson have been in the city for three years, and during that time their work has been most satisfactory and helpful. They have endeared themselves to their followers and all with whom they have come in contact. The Staff Captain, gifted with an unusually pleasing personality, has always been considered one of the best officers in the Army, and much regret was expressed in Vancouver when she left there after a three years' leadership to take up duties with the Victoria corps.

HIGH SCHOOL BIDS OPENED LAST NIGHT

$400,000 is Estimated Cost of New Structure—By-law Required to Raise $300,000

A further advance with the High school project for the city of Victoria was made last night when the board met to open the bids tendered upon the work in response to the recent invitation of the trustees. From the figures quoted in the various bids submitted it became evident that the ratepayers will be called upon to contribute something in the neighborhood of $350,000 to the scheme, as the cost of construction, together with fittings and furnishings, will swell the bill to about $400,000, and there is not more than $150,000 in the school board treasury at the present time. It is likely, therefore, that a by-law to borrow the required sum will be placed before the people in January.

The bids were tendered on the alternative basis in accordance with the specifications, and in order to place the board in a better position to adjudicate upon their respective merits they were referred to the buildings and grounds committee to draw up a report showing the comparisons of the bids.

Whatever virtue there may be in submitting the lowest tender on alternative propositions belongs to the Island Construction Co., whose figure, $285,000 for the construction of the entire building, was about $100,000 less than several of the others. Together with the bids for the building, quotations were received for the installation of the electrical equipment, the plumbing and the heating and lighting systems, and as they were submitted on the alternative plan also they could not be dealt with as a straight issue, but had to be referred to the committee. In advertising for bids the board inserted a clause asking for prices on the construction of the basement and first story only. These are given with the full figures in the appended table:

	Entire Bldg.	Basem't.
Norton Griffiths Co.	$381,000	$107,000
Dinsdale & Malcolm	329,000	119,000
Luney Bros.	305,928	64,814
Sound Construction Co.	428,000	.....
Westholme Lumber Co.	359,950	94,279
Thomas & Hodson	410,435	131,042
Island Construction Co.	285,000	114,000
Thomas Catterall	379,995	.....
Armstrong, Morrison Co.	364,520	145,328

Bids with alternative offers for the ventilating and heating were received from the following: Barr & Anderson, $41,658, $42,658, $43,918, according to the type of apparatus installed; J. R. Tacey, $47,[illegible], $50,270, $46,975 and $47,575; Louis A. Borde, $46,112, $47,297, $47,012 and $47,212; E. F. Sturtham, $42,250, this latter bid being thrown out as no marked cheque was forwarded; R. J. Knott; for plumbing, heating and ventilating, $77,000.

Bids for plumbing follow: A. Sherrett, $12,487, $11,270 and $11,074; Colbert & Co., $12,786, $12,306 and $12,526; W. R. Menzies, $11,154, $9,909 and $10,[illegible]3; Hayward & Dods, $14,260 and $13,200.

Bids for installation of electrical equipment were received from the following: Hinton Electrical Co., $19,950; Standard Engineering Co., $18,469; Hawkins & Hayward, $22,420; Louis A. Borde, $21,873; D. L. Hickey & Co., $20,881; Empire Construction Co., $20,921.

TROUBLE OVER RESIGNATION.

School Principal Winsby's Appointment to Inspectorship Leaves Awkward Position.

The resignation of W. N. Winsby, principal of the Boys' Central school, in order to take up the position of inspector under the educational department of the province, has aroused the ire of the school board, as Mr. Winsby's leaving them at this time will place them in the awkward position of not being able to fill his place till the end of the year.

The resignation of Mr. Winsby was dated October 13 and he desired it to take effect on November 1, so that he could assume his new duties without further delay. As was indicated at the meeting of the school board last night, however, it is contrary to precedent to let a master go until the end of the year.

After much talk had been indulged in on the subject it was decided to inform the department of the board's position in view of the departure of Mr. Winsby and to suggest to the minister that he be allowed to remain in the service of the board until the end of the year.

BOY SCOUT ORDERS.

Victoria Boy Scouts have been invited to attend the Anniversary Trafalgar Day celebration at Victoria theatre on Saturday, 21st inst. at 8 p. m., by H. L. Salmon, Esq., Secretary Victoria Branch of the Navy League.

Scouts must be in uniform and will report to Scoutmaster H. R. Selfe, who will select a number to act as ushers.

It is hoped that a large number of the Victoria Scouts will avail themselves of this excellent opportunity to hear Capt. Clive Phillipps-Wolley and other distinguished speakers on the subjects of the Empire's Navy and Patriotism.

District Commissioner.

CHALLENGES GRAY.

English Billiard Champion Would Meet Australian Boy Wonder in Three Matches.

Vancouver, Oct. 20.—H. W. Stevenson, champion billiard player of the world, who is visiting Vancouver en route to the Old Country, cabled to London yesterday offering to meet George Gray, the Australian boy billiard wonder, in three matches for $1,000 a side each match. There has been considerable talk in the Old Country of matching this pair of billiard experts, but Gray has so far failed to enter any competitions for the title. He has been playing exhibition matches in England for the past fifteen months, and will be joined shortly by Lindrum, champion of Australia, whom Stevenson met recently in two handicap matches.

Wednesday evening the champion gave an exhibition at the Vancouver club, playing Mr. Worrall, a local expert, a match of 1,000 up, conceding the Vancouver man 400 points. Both played in splendid form. Stevenson's best break was 128, while Worral put up a break of 104. The final score was: Stevenson 1,000, Worrall 932.

COAST LEAGUE FLAG WON BY PORTLAND

Rose City Team Has Too Big a Lead for Vernon to Overcome

Portland, Oct. 20.—Although the Coast League season does not end until Sunday, yesterday's victory by Portland over San Francisco and Vernon's loss to Los Angeles, determined that the league pennant for the 1911 season is Portland's. On the authority of local fans, mathematically inclined, should Portland lose all the rest of the games and Vernon win them all, the final percentage of the local team would be .583 and that of Vernon .582.

The close race for the pennant has wrought intense interest in this city, not alone among the habitual baseball enthusiasts, but also among people who never saw a game and who ordinarily never look at a percentage column.

This afternoon, especially after the Vernon-Los Angeles score became known, the crowds in front of the newspaper offices and cigar stands, where the news of the game was being received, play by play, became so large, that the streets were blocked from curb to curb, for almost a hundred feet in either direction from the megaphone men who were calling off the plays.

The cheering that followed a successful play by Portland or an unsuccessful play by San Francisco was almost deafening and could be heard for blocks.

COAST LEAGUE

Oakland, Oct. 20.—Yesterday was home run day at the ball park. During the Portland-San Francisco engagement three nice, new balls sailed out of the lot, to the great edification of the fans, and the last one driven from Kuhn's bat, won the game for Portland, 3 to 2. Powell started things off for San Francisco in the first inning, lifting one of Seaton's choice curves over the right field boundary. Kruger followed suit for Portland in the second inning, making the score one all. In the fifth the San Franciscans solved several of Seaton's offerings and on three safe drives captured another run. Portland promptly tied the score again in the sixth and in the ninth Kuhn brought in the winning run with the third four-base hit of the day.

Batteries—Seaton and Kuhn; Miller and Schmidt.

Sacramento, Oct. 20.—After landing on Yates for six runs in the first inning and running this lead up to a 14 to 3 score by the end of the fourth, Sacramento slackened its pace and allowed Oakland to come up on even terms. In the tenth inning, Lewis walked, his stolen base, Cutshaw's error and Hester's single to right, sent across the run which gave the locals the game, 16 to 15. Oakland's eighth inning was the feature of the game. The first five men up hit safely, anything to the outfield going for a sure one. By the time the half of the inning had closed, 13 Oakland batters had faced Mahoney, and eight hits, a base on balls and Green wood's error had given the Oaks seven runs.

McGRAW CENSURED.

National Commission Warns New York Manager Against Using Improper Language.

New York, Oct. 20.—The national commission yesterday censured John J. McGraw, manager of the New York National League club, for his conduct during the Athletics-Giants game here last Tuesday, and notified him that a repetition of misconduct would result in removal from the field, expulsion from all further world's series games and a heavy fine. First Baseman Merkle of New York, also was fined $100 for improper language. McGraw is accused of using profane language and otherwise conducting himself improperly while walking from the coachers' line to the bench during the last few innings of the game.

WORLD'S GLIDING RECORD.

Maneto, N. C., Oct. 20. Orville Wright broke the world's gliding record here, remaining aloft on each occasion for one minute and fifteen seconds. On the last occasion, in the teeth of a 25-mile wind, he fell fifteen feet, but was unhurt, although the machine was smashed.

Mr. Wright felt that the day's experiments demonstrated his ability to remain in the air without the aid of a motor just as soon as certain alterations are made in the construction of the supporting agencies. In the second flight the glider, for the first time since the trials began, stood horizontal and stationary for five seconds, at an elevation of 60 feet. Finally it moved forward and downward and came to the ground 200 feet to the north. This was the best flight of the day.

RUGBY FOOTBALL GAMES TO-MORROW

Bays vs. Algerine, Canteen Grounds—Bankers vs. Law—Students at Oak Bay

At the Canteen grounds to-morrow afternoon the sailors of H. M. S. Algerine will endeavor to take the J. B. A. A. intermediate Rugby football players into camp and incidentally take revenge for two severe beatings received at the hands of their young rivals.

So far the tars have proved no match at all for the Bays, but lack of practice and the fact that they were playing away from home may account for a lot. At all events they promise to make the city chaps extend themselves to the utmost to get away with a victory to-morrow.

The J. B. A. A. follows: Fullback, McDonald; three-quarters, Scott, Ross, Cohen and Dickson; halves, Heyland and Mewitt; forwards, Houston, Arbuckle, Day, Flint, Kennedy, Wise, Hiscocks and Baylis. The game starts promptly at 3 o'clock and all enthusiasts intending to be present must leave on the 2.15 car.

Another Rugby match, which should be provocative of much excitement, will be played at Oak Bay to-morrow afternoon. Like "Cyclone" Johnny Thompson, the law students have been issuing a defy to all and sundry for some time past, but unlike the "Cyclone" they have finally been successful in finding someone on whom to test their strength and cunning. The bankers of the city have accepted the challenge and at 2.30 to-morrow the teams will line up at Oak Bay. A. D. Scott, secretary of the Victoria Rugby club, will referee.

The law students are open to challengers from any club and are willing to play the Algerine or University School at any time. It is stated that they will play the Vancouver law students at an early date.

Their team for to-morrow follows: Full-back, Tait; three-quarters, Galliher, Ogden, Boggs and C. Martin; forwards, Milligan (capt.), Monteith, White, Amberry, Fletcher, Wootton, Norris and Finland. Reserves, three-quarters, Babington; forwards, Ely, Hanna and Carruthers.

On the conclusion of the game at the Canteen grounds between the Algerine and Bays, W. N. Kennedy (act. capt.), and W. Day (secretary), will select the team which will represent the J. B. A. A. against the Argos of Vancouver, on Thanksgiving Day.

EXPECT ARRIVAL OF SPRINGBANK ANY DAY

Weir Barque, Out From Santa Rosalia, Due to Reach Port —Comes for Orders

Very shortly the Weir barque Springbank should be reported passing in at Tatoosh, completing her passage from Santa Rosalia to the Royal Roads. The vessel cleared from the southern port early last month, and is coming here for orders. Shippers at Portland, Ore., state that the vessel is heading for that port, but according to the information given out by Lieut. Kennedy, marine superintendent of the Weir fleet, the barque will come to the Roads. It is likely that she will load grain on the Sound for the United Kingdom.

Word has been received here from Portland stating that the German ship Dione, which arrived there from Santa Rosalia a few days ago, spoke the Springbank in lat. 23 north and long. 122 west. The British vessel cleared from the Southern California port five days ahead of the German ship, but she was soon overhauled. The Dione completed the fastest voyage of the season from Santa Rosalia to Portland, accomplishing the long trip in 32 days. She was fortunate in being able to beat her way out of the Gulf of California in five days, whereas the Springbank had much difficulty, taking nearly ten days.

It is expected that the heavy gale which nearly sent the British barque Cleticburn and many other vessels to the bottom, has retarded the voyage of the Springbank somewhat. Word is expected almost any day of the arrival off Cape Flattery of the Weir sailer. She is a sister ship to the Olivebank, now at Seattle undergoing repairs, necessitated through her cargo catching fire while she was lying at Santa Rosalia and the scuttling which followed to save her from being totally destroyed.

FUNNEL-LESS SHIP ARRIVES.

Behaves Splendid in Making Run Across Atlantic to New York—No Masts.

New York, Oct. 20.—The first of the oil propelled ocean liners which promises to revolutionize traffic reached America last week. Something of the transformation which will be worked in the appearance of ships is shown in the new boat, The Toiler, the new ship, made several successful trial trips on the other side, and in crossing the Atlantic behaved well. Throughout the trans-Atlantic trip the Toiler burned 1.75 tons of oil a day, only one-sixth as much fuel as would ordinary engines of the same size. Another economy is the elimination of coal heavers. There is no steam on the boat, the cabins are heated by hot water. To the land lubber the chief interest in the oil burning lighter is the absence of smokestacks and masts, and except for two low masts at the prow and stern, the upper deck is unbroken. The Toiler will be followed by two 9,000-ton oil burning trans-Atlantic liners of the Hamburg-American line next year.

FINISHES UNLOADING LOCAL STEEL CARGO

Harmattan Leaving for Vancouver To-night—Celtic King Next of Steamships Due

Work on discharging the cargo of steel rails from the steamship Harmattan, Capt. Lamb, will be completed this afternoon and the Evans, Coleman & Evans vessel will sail from the outer docks for Vancouver to-night. A large gang of stevedores has been engaged since the arrival of the Harmattan on Wednesday morning, in unloading the local cargo. The steamship is operating under charter in what is known as the Maple Leaf line, only recently inaugurated between New York, Victoria and Vancouver.

For about a week the Harmattan will remain at the Terminal City discharging 4,000 tons of rails and considerable machinery. When the work is completed she will proceed to San Francisco to load a cargo of wheat, barley and general freight for the United Kingdom. She is a big carrier and will take on at the Golden Gate about eight thousand tons. It is not known whether she will load for the Maple Leaf line again or not.

Announcement has been made by the agents of the line that the steamship Celtic King is the next of the freighters which will arrive here. According to the schedule she should arrive about the end of this month, having left New York some time ago with a cargo similar to that of the Harmattan. Following the Celtic King will be the steamship Purley, which is coming in February. She has not yet sailed from New York but will be getting away from that port some time in December.

The Purley is well known here having made a previous trip to this port in the old New York-Vancouver line. Her cargo will be made up of rails and machinery. There is a large amount of rails being brought to this port at present and in order that they may be easily brought into town from the outer docks, the B. C. Electric Railway is building a spur line to the wharves.

EVENTFUL PASSAGE OF BRITISH VESSEL

Strathdean Reaches 'Frisco—Loses Three Propeller Blades and Has Fire in Cargo

San Francisco, Oct. 20.—One hundred and thirty nine days out of Newport News, the British freighter Strathdean, Captain Durdin, has arrived, reporting a voyage that was full of incident. In addition to losing her propellor blades the collier which is under charter on this voyage to the United States government, had fire in her hold and a series of experiences that her crew will remember for some time.

The Strathdean steamed from Newport News on May 29, and on June 16, four hundred miles south of Pernambuco, lost three blades of her propellor. She limped into Bahia, arriving there on June 22 and it was not until August 20 that she got under way again, it being necessary to send to England for the required blades. The work of putting on the blades was done with great difficulty. Two thousand tons of coal were discharged to the dock before the vessel was sufficiently lightened to permit the necessary repairs.

On Oct. 7, the Strathdean was discovered to be on fire. Several hundred tons of fuel had to be jettisoned and the crew worked for many days and nights before the fire was got under control.

The German ship Barmbek, at Portland, has been rechartered for wheat at an advance of three shillings. She was taken some months ago by the Portland Flour Mills at 27s, 6d, and yesterday was turned over by them to H. M. Houser for 30s, 6d.

The British ship Cambrian Chieftain, due at Portland from Port Natal, has been rechartered at an advance also. She was originally under charter to Hind, Rolph & Co., but the name of her new charterers has not been announced.

The schooner J. H. Lunsmann, which has just arrived on the Sound, has been fixed by the Compagnie du Boleo to load lumber for Santa Rosalia. The barquentine Gardiner City has been fixed for a coastwise trip from the Sound to this port at $4.25.

The steam schooner Daisy Freeman has been fixed to load lumber on Coos Bay for San Pedro at $4.75.

The Mexican steamer General Y. Pesinuria arrived Wednesday night from the lower coast with cedar logs. She will be overhauled and loaded with general cargo for Guaymas and Mazatlan.

The British steamer Crown of Castile in the Harrison line, arrived yesterday from the Sound to finish loading for England. The steamer Tampico arrived from Balboa.

The Hyades molasses capacity will be 145,680 gallons, which will be carried in three tanks, one on each side of the vessel amidships and one in the centre.

There also will be molasses pumps by which the cargo can be discharged after the manner of oil from oil tankers. The molasses is to be carried from the Hawaiian Islands to Port Hadlock, Wash., where it will be used in the manufacture of cattle feed. Reconstruction of the boat will cost $50,000.

BEATRICE FLOATED OFF NOBLE ISLAND

SALVOR PULLS HER INTO DEEP WATER LAST NIGHT

Steamer on Way South to Vancouver — Comes Here After Discharging Cargo

Wireless messages received in this city to-day stated that the C. P. R. steamer Princess Beatrice, Capt. Robertson, which struck on Noble island last Saturday night, has been floated and is now on her way to Vancouver escorted by the B. C. Salvage Company's steamer Salvor. According to the information the vessel came off the rocks at high tide last night. The Salvor placed a line aboard the ship and when the tide was full commenced to pull with the result that the vessel slipped into deep water once again.

A message received from Cape Lazo showed that the Beatrice and Salvor passed through Seymour Narrows at 10:30 o'clock this morning and at 11 o'clock were off Cape Mudge. Officials of the B. C. Coast Service expect that the injured vessel will reach Vancouver to-night. Her salmon cargo, which had to be lightered from her forward hold before she could be floated, is being brought south, apparently undamaged.

After word was received here of the grounding of the Beatrice, the steamer Salvor was sent to float the vessel by the B. C. Salvage Company, and they have added another remarkable feat to their already long list in getting the vessel off in such a short time. The Beatrice was badly damaged forward and a bulkhead had to be constructed by the salvors. She was also damaged aft but all the holes were patched up and the water pumped out. With her cargo lightered the vessel came off the rocks of Noble island easily last night at high tide, when the Salvor strained away on a hawser.

The steamer is to discharge her cargo at Vancouver and will then be brought to Esquimalt to be repaired. It is estimated that within two weeks the vessel will agatn be ready for service. The work of repairing her will be rushed with all speed.

HEAVY WEATHER MET BY CITY OF PUEBLA

Steamship Severely Buffetted During Run From 'Frisco Here—Few Passengers

Battling against a strong gale, which has been sweeping the coast of late from the time she left San Francisco until she passed in at Tatoosh, the Pacific Coast steamship City of Puebla, Capt. Hannah, was delayed in reaching port. She did not tie up at the outer wharf until 2 o'clock this morning, but as she had only a light cargo for this port she got away early for Seattle and other Sound ports.

No sooner had the Puebla passed out of the Golden Gate than she was assailed by the heavy weather. The steamship was pitched about and she shipped large quantities of water. Off the Columbia river the gale blew with great force and tremendous seas were running. Coming up the strait the Puebla encountered light winds but the passengers were not subjected to such inconvenience as during the former part of the passage.

For this port the steamship brought 143 tons of general freight. A unique item of the cargo was a large consignment of "corsets" for the dry goods merchants of this city, who report a dearth in the shape-makers. The regular list of fruits, vegetables, candies, hardware and wines was included in the freight discharged at this port.

The vessel has very few passengers this trip, sixty-one in both the saloon and second class. Those who left the steamship here were as follows: Mrs. W. S. Allen, Mrs. C. Aylwin, Carrie Brown, T. C. Clenny, Agnes Dougall, Mrs. M. Downing, G. D. Erskine and wife, Jno. Harakas, H. McDougall, Chas. Menrow, R. G. Scarlett and wife, L. A. Whitelaw and Mrs. H. A. Woodrum.

ESTABLISHES NEW RUN.

Honolulu Inaugurating Passenger Service Between Seattle and Honolulu.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 20.—Coming here to inaugurate a new passenger service between Puget Sound and the Hawaiian islands, the steamer Honolulan, which was recently chartered by the Matson Navigation Co., arrived in Seattle Wednesday from San Francisco.

The vessel is owned by the American-Hawaiian S. S. Co., and has been taken over by the Matson Navigation Co., to replace the steamer Hyades, which is at Moran yards for extensive alterations.

The Honolulan is practically a new vessel and has been operated by the American-Hawaiian S. S. Co. between San Francisco and the Hawaiian Islands. She has first-cabin accommodations for fifty passengers, and will undoubtedly be a popular vessel for tourists. The steamer has a cargo capacity of between 16,000 and 18,000 measurement tons, and heavy shipments of flour, salmon, feed grain and general merchandise will be taken by her when she sails October 24 or 25 for Honolulu.

U. S. SURVEY VESSEL MAKES A BRIEF CALL

Explorer Visits Here on Return to Seattle From Long Cruise in Far North

After having completed her season's work in the north, the little U. S. S. Explorer, Capt. Rhodes, called at this port on Wednesday on her way to Seattle. The vessel, which is engaged in the American coast and geodetic survey service, was here when she was going north about three or four months ago. The greater part of the time the steamer was away from port she spent at Goodnews Bay and the Kuskokwin river and Capt. Rhodes reports having had a most successful season.

Many of the treacherous rocks along the Alaskan coast, which have proved disastrous to American shipping, have been charted. Recommendations are also to be made for the establishment of additional lighthouses, beacons and buoys at certain points along that coast, and the cruise of the Explorer just completed is reckoned to be the most profitable one that has been made for some time, as it contains much valued information.

During her stay in the north the Explorer experienced heavy weather and during her southbound run she was badly buffetted off Ketchikan. When crossing Dixon Entrance she encountered a terrific southeaster and was forced to run before the wind for the Alaskan port, where she remained in shelter for several hours. Heavy winds were also met in Milbank and Queen Charlotte Sounds.

Owing to the fact that the Explorer had to undergo an extensive overhaul at San Francisco in the spring she did not get away for her field of work this year until late. The steamer called in here to take on some supplies and stores when going north and was here for a few hours on her homeward trip for a visit.

STANDS TRIAL TO-DAY FOR STEALING A COW

Judge Howay of New Westminister Hears Evidence in Port Renfrew Theft Case

Charged for the second time with the theft of a cow, the first time having been found guilty and the conviction subsequently being quashed on appeal to the higher court, and a new trial ordered, Alfred Deakin, of Port Renfrew, appeared in the county court this morning and pleaded not guilty. He is defended by J. A. Aikman, and H. A. Maclean, K.C., appears for the crown.

An application to Judge Lampman for the right to re-elect the manner of trial, whether before a judge or before a jury, having been refused, Mr. Aikman this morning entered the accused's plea of not guilty without prejudice to any right accused may have arising out of Judge Lampman's refusal to allow re-election.

Mr. Maclean questioned the right of Judge Howay to try the accused, on the ground that he had elected before the other judge at the former trial. He questioned if it was not incumbent upon Judge Lampman to try the accused a second time. Judge Howay held that the fact that accused had elected before Judge Lampman did not seize that judge of the trial, and that under the judge's act, where one judge is unable for some sufficient reason to try a case he can call in another judge for that purpose. Judge Lampman was this morning engaged with the Dale trial, which, however, was eventually set over until this afternoon.

Mr. Maclean, relating the facts of the charge as set out by the prosecution, said that in the summer of 1910 the accused had supplied meat to a logging camp at Port Renfrew and had killed a cow in Crompton's meadows. It weighed 695 pounds and was sold to the camp for 10½ cents per pound. The accused is alleged to have cut the head off the body and removed the horns. The cow was thought to have been owned by some Indians, who complained to Indian Agent Allan W. Neill. He held an investigation, discovered the head and horns and made an unsuccessful search in accused's premises for the hide. Returning from the house he met accused, who, when questioned, offered to return and produce the hide belonging to the head found. He did so and insisted that it be fitted to the head. It was found to fit and the Indians declared the hide was not that of the cow lost by them.

A clergyman named Elliston, living in the vicinity, got to hear of the inquiry and went to Port Renfrew, where he identified the head, horns and hide as being part of a cow stolen from him. His cow had been a Shorthorn Durham and the horns, produced in court today, has been sawn at the tips. The cow had been purchased in Victoria from a man named Fisher, who, in sawing the tips off the horns, had commenced lower down. Thinking he was taking off too much he stopped and sawed off the tips higher up. One horn bears the mark of the saw where the first attempt to remove the tip was made. The trial is proceeding and there are fourteen witnesses to be called.

The trial of Bonnycastle Dale on a second charge, set for to-day before Judge Lampman, was adjourned until 2.30 this afternoon.

NEW FLOWER EXHIBITED.

Double Marguerite Daisy Shown At Meeting of Florists Last Evening.

At a very enthusiastic meeting of the Florists' Association held last evening in the committee rooms of the Alexandra Club, the Double Marguerite Daisy, a flower entirely new to the coast, was exhibited and was viewed with intense admiration by the members. The new daisy is a magnificent bloom and is in addition a strong grower. W. Norman, the exhibitor, was the recipient of congratulations on all sides.

An exhibit of single seedling Dahlias shown by E. A. Wallace, was also greatly admired by the members present.

An interesting paper on bulb culture was read by Mr. Sanders, following which a lengthy discussion on the relative merits of different bulbs for shrubbery, lawns, orchards and other outdoor blooming took place.

Several applications for membership were received and it is expected that before the year is over the society will have doubled its membership. Reports from the secretary and other members of the executive showed that the association was commencing its second year in a most healthy condition.

There was an attendance of 20 members last evening. T. W. Bennett, the president, occupied the chair.

It is the intention of the society to hold another meeting in the near future, when several papers dealing with subjects of first importance to florists will be read.

ON TRIAL CHARGED WITH WIFE MURDER

New Westminster Constable Says Henry Jobes Admitted His Guilt

New Westminster, B. C., Oct. 20.—At the trial of Henry Jobes, charged with the murder of his wife, Edward Johnston, of the city police force, testified yesterday afternoon that the prisoner had said to him: "I am guilty of the charge I am arrested for."

This statement, the constable said, was made to him in the day room at the police station, after he had brought Jobes something to eat and had cautioned him that anything he said might be used against him. His Lordship expressed himself perfectly satisfied that the constable had not attempted to extract a confession, but commented adversely on the formula which stood for a warning in such cases. It savored too much of a stereotyped mumble, and was not sufficiently impressive to strike the prisoner with its serious purport.

Another witness to whom Jobes is alleged to have made a confession was placed on the stand, but was excused until to-day, as the court did not think he was in condition to give evidence. Senior Constable Wilkie was instructed to keep an eye on him overnight.

George Webster, a boarder with the Jobes, and a fellow employee of the prisoner, told of hearing an altercation between Jobes and his wife on May 25, when the former left his home at 427 Fourth street for the Gulchon rooms, where he took up his quarters. The witness heard Mrs. Jobes call out: "He is threatening to shoot me."

He saw Jobes later and demanded what he meant by threatening to shoot his wife. Jobes denied it, and said it was only his pipe.

Robert Smellie, another boarder and fellow employee, said he was on friendly terms with Jobes. The prisoner had been brooding very much after leaving his home, and one day said to the witness that he "would do the whole bunch."

The witness asked him who he meant by the "whole bunch," and Jobes explained he meant his wife and two sons. Jobes also spoke of buying a gun.

Isaac Johnston told how Jobes had asked him where he could buy a gun. Afterwards Jobes told him he had bought a revolver for $6.50, and gave him to understand it was to shoot rats with.

George A. Speck, gun dealer, swore to selling a revolver on June 2, but could not identify the prisoner as the purchaser.

Harry Lamb, a fellow-employee of Jobes, testified to the prisoner's telling him that he had had some bother with his wife and had been thrown out. A few days later Jobes complained of being very downhearted about having left his home. The witness reported the conversation to the prisoner's son with a view to negotiating a reconciliation, and the son replied: "It was not my mother that threw him out; he went away himself."

Jobes added later: "It is our Will who keeps me away from home."

Will was his son's name.

SAYS POWERS ARE LIKELY TO INTERVENE

Rear-Admiral Evans Predicts Trouble If Chinese Revolt Destroys Trade

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 20.—That the revolution in China, whether successful or not, is likely to involve the powers of the world in a bloody conflict, proposed peace treaties notwithstanding, is the opinion of Rear-Admiral R. D. Evans.

"It is probable," said the admiral, "that this revolution will prove the beginning of the end of the Chinese Empire, just as the taking of Tripoli by Italy is in all probability the beginning of the end of the Ottoman Empire. It is difficult at this stage to forecast just what trend affairs will take.

"I think, however, that Great Britain will soon resent the interference with her trade in China and tell the Chinese authorities if they don't stop making trouble in her market place that she will.

"The United States does not want to fight China, or any one else, for that matter, but if Uncle Sam's boys are shown disrespect the Celestials may be called upon to change their tactics and change them quick.

"Then there are Germany, Japan and Russia with interests in the Orient. The Japanese, unlike the Chinese, understand the meaning of patriotism. The Chinese in Hankow have absolutely no feeling of relationship for their brothers in Pekin. There is little or no national spirit in China. I believe the revolution will fail for this very reason. Still, the Chinese will fight if they have backing, and if the fire of revolution spreads as it recently did in Mexico under Madero's leadership, there is a possibility that the world may soon see a new China. But what effect China as a republic would have upon other nations is hard to prophesy."

PLAYED FOR SUPPER THAT WAS NOT EATEN

Thirteen Chinese Found Not Guilty of Gambling on Appeal From Conviction

That the Chinese hold evening "at homes" the same as the white population and play in place of bridge whist and five hundred equally interesting games for their amusement and edification, and also for the purpose of deciding who shall buy a chop suey supper, was shown in the County court yesterday, where Judge Lampman was occupied all day hearing an appeal brought by Deng and twelve other Chinese against convictions recorded against them in the police court for gambling.

Judge Lampman decided that the men were not playing a gambling game when the police stepped in and interfered, and the accused were acquitted. In the police court they had each been fined $25.

In the police court the defence was raised that they were having a quiet evening and deciding by one of the many Chinese methods of using dominoes who of their number should pay for a supper. The game took place in a roof on an alley off Cormorant street, opposite the police station, and when the police rushed in they secured a table, some dominoes, a strip of matting and the thirteen Chinese.

An expert named Chang, who was brought from Vancouver by the police to give expert evidence as to the nature of the game, said the Chinese had been playing piagow, which, if it is a game in which gambling can be enjoyed the same as bridge whist, is not necessarily, the judge decided, a gambling game.

W. C. Moresby defended the accused; and C. L. Harrison represented the city.

CHANGING AIR IN SUBWAYS.

The "tubes," or subways, in London, Eng., are being "ozonized," as some of the metropolitan papers term it. An elaborate plant for the pumping of air into the underground traffic lines has been installed. An official of the Central London Tube Railway says: "The plant at each station will pump 400,000 cubic feet of air an hour into the station, or at the rate of 900 cubic feet a person an hour. The ordinary allowance in buildings, is about 300 cubic feet of fresh air a person. The air is drawn from the outside through a filter screen, which removes dust and dirt and impure gases, such as ammonia and sulphurous acid. A part of the air is then highly ozonized by being passed over highly electrified plates, the proportion of ozone in the whole being one part in 10,000,000. The air is driven by fans to the level of the bottom of the station, and two-thirds of it is distributed over the platform by ducts, with outlets at a height of seven feet above the platform. The remainder is driven into the tunnel."

HAS NARROW ESCAPE.

Tacoma, Wash., Oct. 20.—Twice barely escaping death on Wednesday, when a motorcycle running at the rate of 22 miles an hour, struck her as she stepped out into the street at South Third and C. streets, and knocking her directly in the path of a fast-approaching Point Defiance street car, Miss Doris Foster, aged 19 years, daughter of W. B. Foster, superintendent of the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound railroad company in Tacoma, lies in her home painfully if not seriously injured. When the motorcycle struck Miss Foster she was thrown down in front of the car which barely stopped in time to avoid running over her.

The rider of the motorcycle, named Tom Gaddes, was taken to police headquarters where he is held until an investigation as to why he was speeding on a crowded street is completed.

SCIENTISTS PUZZLED.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 20.—Alice Taylor, the alleged girl Raffles, whose case has attracted the attention of scientists and criminalogists all over the country, will not be tried on the charge that led up to her most recent arrest. A continuance of her trial for alleged theft was asked yesterday by Prosecutor Shannon, who informed the court in which she was being tried that he had arranged to have her cared for by friends and ultimately would ask a dismissal of her case.

The girl was operated on at Oakland, Cal., recently in an effort to remove a depression on her brain which physicians said caused her to want to steal. The operation was pronounced a success, but shortly after her discharge from the Oakland hospital as cured, she was arrested here as a thief.

A BALD-HEADED WOMAN

Shorn of Her Crown of Beauty, Loses in Love and Marriage

Hair is certainly most necessary to woman. Who could love and marry a bald-headed woman? What charms could one array to offset such a disfigurement?

A woman's goal is usually love and marriage. Her crowning glory is her hair. The loss of her hair mars her beauty, happiness, and success. Yet, right, here in Victoria there are thousands of women who are neglecting or injuring the hair to such an extent that it is only a matter of time when it will be utterly ruined.

Many women destroy the beauty of their hair through thoughtlessness or ignorance of certain facts. They use curling irons over-heated, or to excess, which destroys the natural oil of the hair, causing it to split, break, and come out. They do not shampoo their hair often enough, or too often. They use soaps or preparations which contain ingredients positively harmful to the scalp and hair.

As a result of such treatment, dandruff is created, the hair loosens, loses color, falls out, and baldness commences, unless proper and prompt precautions are taken in time. Then again, microbes and certain diseases bring about unhealthy scalp and hair conditions.

Almost any woman may rid herself of dandruff and diseased scalp and hair if she will but use the right remedy. We have that remedy, and we will positively guarantee that it will either cure dandruff and baldness or it will not cost the user anything.

That's a pretty broad statement, but we will back it and prove it with our own money. We will return your money if you do not find that Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is an entirely satisfactory remedy that will promote hair growth and overcome scalp and hair troubles; that it will grow hair even on bald heads, unless all life in the hair roots has been extinguished, the follicles closed, and the scalp is glazed and shiny. It gets its name from the fact that it grew hair in 93 out of 100 cases, where it received a thoroughly hard, impartial, and practical test.

We want you to try Rexall "93" Hair Tonic at our risk. You surely cannot lose anything by doing so, while you have everything to gain. You had better think this over, and then come in and see us about this offer. You will be well repaid for your visit to our store. Remember, you can get Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store — The Rexall Store. D. E. Campbell Drug Store.

PAPER COMPANY TO ENLARGE PLANT

Additional Equipment for the Powell River Factory Will Cost $1,000,000

Vancouver, Oct. 20.—That the Powell River Paper Company will double the capacity of their present plant at Powell River within the coming year is conceded to be almost a certainty.

It is expected that the work on the enlarged plant will begin some time this winter or as soon as the present plant which is to be put into operation in the course of the next five weeks, is in good running order. The increase will cost about one million dollars, making the total expenditure on Powell River about $3,500,000.

The capacity of the present plant is about 100 tons of paper with the additional two machines (there are two in now) the plant will be able to manufacture 200 tons of commercial paper daily. This will make the plant rank well up with any on the Pacific coast.

President D. F. Brooks, of the company is expected in the city at any time to consult with the directors regarding the installation of the additional equipment.

The power plant was put out of commission a few days ago through the bursting of one of the penstocks. This has delayed operations and made the starting of the mill impossible on the day set. As it is, commercial paper will probably be put on the market from this factory within the next two months.

The time used is Pacific Standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, above the average level of the lowest low water in each month of the year. This level is half a foot lower than the datum to which the soundings on the Admiralty chart of Victoria harbor are reduced.

BATTLESHIP IN COLLISION.

Kiel, Germany, Oct. 20.—The German battleship Hessen was rammed last night by the Norwegian steamer Argo. The damage to the battleship was very slight. The steamer's bow was crushed in, but she returned to Kiel unassisted.

YOUNG AT EIGHTY-ONE.

Simple Health Maxims of Sir Thomas Crosby.

With pride and wonder members of the city corporation and of the city livery companies are following the public career of Alderman Sir Thomas Crosby, the octogenarian medical man who has been chosen to succeed Sir Vezey Strong as Lord Mayor of London during the coming year.

So many demands are made upon the time and energies of a Lord-Mayor-elect that the five weeks intervening between the dates of his election and his succession to the civic chair on November 9 are looked upon as a period of probation and severe training for the onerous responsibilities of the twelve months of office. Every day has its engagements to be kept, meetings to be attended, speeches to be deliverd, preparations and arrangements to be made, congratulations to be received and acknowledged. At eighty-one years of age Sir Thomas is discharging all these multifarious obligations with a youthful vigor that causes admiring liverymen to look forward to the Lord Mayor's show and the Guildhall banquet following it as the inauguration of a mayoral reign at the Mansion House that will stimulate energy and activity in every department of the city's life.

"How does he do it? What is his prescription?" ask amazed aldermen as they watch the nimble octogenarian and listen to his clear and vibrant voice. A representative of the Daily Mail yesterday invited Sir Thomas to disclose his secret.

"Take care of your arteries!" That is Sir Thomas' prescription for the preservation of youth. "In the city of London or anywhere else, take care of your arteries. A man is as old as his arteries. If they degenerate you get an effusion of blood upon the brain or elsewhere and crack!—you are old at five-and-twenty."

"But what do you do for your arteries to keep them from degenerating?" he was asked.

"Early to bed," he replied, "smoke little and drink less, but first of all early to bed. You know the saying, 'Six hours' sleep for a man, seven hours for a woman, and eight for a fool'? Well, the man who said that was a fool himself, and all the fools who have believed him have found out their folly. A long night's sleep, that is the great rule."

"But then if little tobacco and less drink is a good rule, why is not total abstinence from both a better one?"

"Well," Sir Thomas explained, "I have been a teetotaller myself for a time, and as far as I could judge teetotalism did me no harm. I was as well without anything as with it. But if you want to know why, after all my experience, I take a glass of wine I will tell you. It is because I like it," and the Lord Mayor-elect laughed a great big, hearty, eupeptic laugh.

"And there's this about it, my glass of wine is half a glass, and after November 9 it is going to be only a quarter of a glass. When it is every day you have to make a difference. For frequent doses a smaller quantity, you see. But the long night's sleep, you need never vary that."

ITALIANS MOVING AGAINST TURKS

Military Commander at Tripoli Reported to Have Started His Advance

Chiasso, Switzerland, Oct. 20.—Private reports received here say that General Caneva, military commander of the Italian forces at Tripoli, has begun his advance against the Turks in the hills. A column of Italian infantry, it is said, is marching in that direction. It is difficult to ascertain the truth of these reports.

Cholera Among Troops.

Berlin, Oct. 20.—A correspondent of the Zeitung Am Mittig, cabling from Jerba, an island belonging to Tunis, says the Italian losses in nightly skirmishes in Tripoli are considerable, and that the Italian assertions that the Turks and their Arab allies are discouraged and intend to surrender are pure humbug.

Cholera, he states, has claimed many among the Italian troops and the residents of Tripoli.

Turkey's Policy.

Constantinople, Oct. 20.—The grand vizier, Said Pasha, made a statement on the policy of the new government in the Chamber of Deputies. He declared that it would defend Ottoman rights at all costs, and in order to safeguard the interests of the country proposed to maintain the policy heretofore pursued and seek alliances.

The Chamber of Deputies yesterday adopted a motion that it had confidence in the government to safeguard effectively the sovereign rights of the Sultan in Tripoli and the integrity of the empire. The chamber also expressed confidence in the cabinet.

The grand vizier outlined the policy of the cabinet regarding Tripoli, and said it was the government's intention to continue to offer passive resistance to Italy, while persisting in its diplomatic efforts to secure an equitable settlement.

Derna Bombarded.

Tripoli, Oct. 20.—Derna was bombarded by the Italians on October 16. A heavy sea which was running prevented the landing of forces.

NEW FIRM ORGANIZED.

Gillespie, Hart & Todd, Ltd., is Reorganization of Older Business.

Among the official notices in the current issue of the B. C. Gazette will be found one of interest to Victorians. The firm of Gillespie & Hart has incorporated and in the future will be known as Gillespie, Hart & Todd, Ltd.

Ernest D. Todd, son of C. F. Todd, the well known salmon canner, is a partner in the new concern. He has made many business friends in the past five years, during which time he was on the local staff of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and is also well-known among the athletic community of the city. Mr. Todd recently returned from South Africa, where he spent a few months with his uncle, Dr. J. L. Todd, who was investigating the sleeping sickness.

The new firm will develop and extend the already thriving business of Gillespie & Hart. A general insurance, real estate and financial business will be transacted and special attention will be paid to the investment of moneys on mortgage and the collection of rents and handling of estates.

Gillespie, Hart & Todd, Ltd., are general agents for the Canada Accident Assurance Co., which is owned and controlled by the Commercial Union Assurance Co., of England. They are therefore in a splendid position to transact employers liability, personal accident, sickness, plate glass and fidelity guarantee insurance. A claims adjuster is attached to their permanent staff, thus ensuring the prompt settlement of claims and thereby saving the assured delay of a protracted correspondence with some distant head office.

The firm also represents the Firemans' Fund Insurance Company for Vancouver Island, which company writes fire, marine and automobile insurance. Gillespie, Hart & Todd, Ltd., are therefore in a position to transact all classes of insurance. The partners for the present will be found at their old office, 1115 Langley street, but hope in the near future to move to more commodious quarters. If business capacity, fair dealing and friends are any criterion the new firm should soon take its place among the important financial houses of British Columbia.

OBITUARY RECORD

The death occurred at the family residence, Finnerty road, Cadboro Bay, this morning, of Mrs. Mary Ann Finnerty, aged 67. Deceased was a native of Galway, Ireland. She is survived by her husband, one daughter and two sons, residing here, and one sister and one brother in San Francisco. The funeral has been arranged to take place on Monday morning at 8.30, from the family residence, and at 9.30 from the Roman Catholic cathedral, where services will be conducted by Rev. Father Leterne. Interment will be made in Ross Bay cemetery. Funeral arrangements are being made by the Victoria Undertaking Company.

The funeral of the late William A. Anderson took place from the family residence, 714 Queen's avenue, at 2.30 o'clock this afternoon. Members of the Masonic order, the Fraternal Order of Eagles and the local Scottish societies attended. Besides there was an extremely large attendance of other friends. The sincere regard in which the deceased was held was further shown by the many beautiful floral designs with which the casket and hearse were covered. The death of Mr. Anderson has caused widespread grief, for he was known as one of the best all-around athletes on the coast. Among other evidences of his prowess in athletics is the fact that from '88 to '90 he held the wrestling championship of the coast and in '91 was a member of the Scottish tug-of-war team, which won the championship of the world for San Francisco. He was also all-round athletic champion of British Columbia when a member of the local police force. He gained his experience in the hotel business, which fitted him so admirably for his position as manager of the Regent hotel here, in the Klondike, where he successively built and managed four hotels. Besides his widow and daughter he is survived by a brother, Detective James Anderson, of Vancouver; a brother in Australia, and a brother and sister in Aberdeen, Scotland. After the commitment services of the societies to which he belonged had been conducted the remains were interred in Ross Bay cemetery.

The remains of the late Mrs. Evadna Sully, who died in Victoria November 8, 1908, were forwarded this afternoon by the B. C. Funeral Furnishing Co. to Clinton, Iowa, for interment. The deceased's husband, W. J. Sully, who arrived two or three days ago from the north, accompanied the remains.

The remains of the late Ernest Bierman arrived last evening on the City of Puebla from Los Angeles, California. Deceased was 18 years of age and a native of Nanaimo. He had been in California but a short time. He leaves to mourn his loss three sisters and three brothers. The funeral has been arranged to take place from the Hanna & Thomson chapel, 827 Pandora street, to-morrow at 2 p. m. Interment will be made in Ross Bay cemetery.

The death occurred in Vancouver on Thursday of Stephen Christian, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Johnson, formerly of Victoria. Deceased was 17 years and 8 months old.

The funeral of the late George Goodie took place from the Hanna & Thomson chapel this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. Services were conducted by Rev. F. H. Fatt. Interment was made in the Ross Bay cemetery.

TITUS CONVINCED HE CAN COME BACK

Will Go After World's Championship, Now Held by Butler, Next Summer

Constance S. Titus, twice champion sigle sculler of the United States and one of the greatest oarsmen America has produced, is to return to the rowing game next summer after an absence of five years. He will row in the national regatta in an effort to recapture the title of champion single sculler that he forfeited by failing to compete. Since his retirement Titus has rowed for the pleasure of it and has kept himself in fine condition. He declares that two months' work in a shell will bring him back to his old form.

The return of the former champion will be a seven-day wonder in the rowing world. There are many of his friends who believe he is the superior of the present champion, E. B. Butler, of the Argonaut Rowing Club of Canada. Titus is convinced that he can defeat Butler, but frankly admits he considers Butler one of the most finished and gamest oarsmen that Canada has produced. Titus believes, too, that he still has the speed and stamina to enable him to triumph over his former rowing rival, Frederick Shepheard, and the later wonders in sculling, Samuel F. Gordon, of the Vesper Boat Club, of Philadelphia, and George Carter, of the New Rochelle Rowing Club.

Plans are now being worked out by the former champion for a shell that he will have constructed this winter, with the stipulation that it be delivered to him by the first of April. He declares it will be the lightest and the best shell ever constructed in this country. It will not be over 25 feet in length and will have a beam of about 12 inches. It will be about 6 inches deep.

During the winter Titus will keep in condition by doing gymnasium work. Early in the spring, as soon as the weather permits, he will get to work in his single.

SOCCER ASSOCIATION.

Large Number of Referees' Charts Received from Westminster Sportsman.

At the meeting of the Victoria and District Soccer Association held last evening, Thomas, goalkeeper, was granted his transfer from the Garrison football club to the Sons of England. Sullivan, Dougan and Bromley, Garrison players, were regraded from first to second division.

The secretary announced that T. J. Mahoney, of New Westminster, had presented the local football league with a large number of referees' charts. These charts will, it is expected, be found very useful. They are small enough to fit the pocket and are marked off with spaces for the names of the players, the officials and particulars of the game, such as the time, score, etc. Referees and managers will be provided with these cards, and after every game they will be handed in to the secretary of the league, and thus a correct record of each game can be kept.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded Mr. Mahoney, and the secretary was instructed to write conveying the same to him. It is not too much to say that Mr. Mahoney is one of the finest sportsmen in British Columbia.

An amusing letter was received from Percy Burriston, of Port Townsend, who claimed to be an Old Country football player, and who asked the league if it could secure for him a remunerative position in town. In return for this he would play football for one of the teams. The secretary was instructed to acknowledge the letter.

RESTRAINING ORDER.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 20.—An order requiring local Union No. 77, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, to show cause October 27 why a restraining order should not be issued preventing the union and its members from maintaining a boycott against the Seattle-Tacoma Power Company, was issued by Judge King Dykeman in the Superior court yesterday.

ENTRIES HAVE CLOSED FOR Y. M. C. A. MEETING

Races on Card for Monday Are Well Filled—George Simpson Will Appear

As the day approaches for the swimming championship meeting of the Y. M. C. A. next Monday, there is every promise of a successful gathering, and in addition to the championship events a special feature is assured in a race between F. V. Henderson, present holder of the 100 yards title of B. C., a member of the Vancouver Y. M. C. A. club, and J. Cameron, of this city, holder of the 50 yards and 220 yards events, over a distance of 180 yards, for a prize offered by an anonymous donor in Vancouver.

The entries closed last evening for the competitive events, and it is now known definitely who will be the competitors.

For the 100 yards' ladies' race there are three entries, Miss Hilda Badman's form, which was expected, not having come to hand. They are: Miss Griffin, former B. C. champion; Miss Dorothy Hay, holder of the 50 yards race; and Mrs. Violet A. Raymond. All have been practicing steadily, and a good race is anticipated.

For the half mile championship four entries have been received from George Simpson, who holds the B. C. mile record, and who will to-morrow week make an effort to lower the Canadian amateur record; John McNeill, H. S. Sellier, and L. K. Godfrey.

The 60 yards back-stroke will be competed for by Rudolph E. Burns, James Thom, H. S. Sellier, H. B. Boggs and W. D. Muir.

For the 100 yards championship of Victoria there are four entries: J. Thom, H. S. Sellier, E. S. Cropper and W. D. Muir.

There will be a meeting of the executive of the Y. M. C. A. swimming club to-night, when the arrangements will be finally completed for the gathering. There will be seating accommodation for 250 visitors.

STANFORD HOSTS.

Cardinals Prepare to Entertain B. C. Rugby Team Which Leaves For South To-Morrow.

Stanford University, Cal., Oct. 20.—Preparations are planned here Wednesday for the entertainment of the combined Vancouver and Victoria Rugby teams which will play the Cardinals here November 1 and 4. The Britishers will be the guests of the fraternity houses during their four days' stay.

The Victoria players leave to-morrow afternoon and meet the Vancouver men in Seattle, whence the team goes south via the Northern Pacific railway. The players have their private car. The first two games will be played in Berkeley against the University of California on October 25 and 28.

RATES INCREASED.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 20.—Following a conference of local traffic officials yesterday, cement rates in local territory, which in June were cut to 22 cents per 100, were ordered increased to 25 cents. The territory affected is Concrete, Seattle, Tacoma and Spokane, Wash., and Madeline Falls, Idaho. Efforts are being made to induce California lines with large cement plants on their tracks to bring about a pro rata increase. It is said by traffic officials that the new rate will widen the field of competition in the cement trade and enable plants west of the mountains to sell to better advantage in Spokane.

MONETARY REFORM IN UNITED STATES

Chairman of Commission Submits Revised Plan for Legislation

Washington, D. C., Oct. 20.—Former Senator Aldrich, of Rhode Island, submitted yesterday to the national monetary commission, of which he is chairman, a revision of his plan for monetary legislation. The commission may use it as the basis of its recommendation to congress. The basic principles of the revised plan are substantially the same as those embodied in Mr. Aldrich's first proposal, sent to the commission last January, which he said he expected would serve as a basis for national discussion.

Briefly, the plan still provides for the organization of the national reserve association, with a capital of approximately $300,000,000, in which the United States government and the banks owning shares in the association shall be the only depositors.

The plan of dividing the United States into fifteen financial districts is urged. In each district the banks shall form local associations, which in turn will be represented in the branches, and finally in the central organization, through a system of election of directors which it is said will make it impossible for any section or set of bankers to control the whole.

To provide for the $730,000,000 of two per cent. government bonds now owned by the national banks and used as the basis of note circulation, the following plan is proposed:

Upon the application of the reserve association the secretary of the treasury shall exchange the two per cent. bonds, which the association will buy from the banks at par and accrued interest, for a new issue of three per cent. securities payable in fifty years.

The reserve association will pay to the government a special franchise tax of one and a half per cent. per year on the amount of such bonds. As the government's interest charge on the two per cent. bonds is now, actually one and a half per cent., since the banks pay back a half of one per cent. as a tax when the bonds are used as the basis of note circulation, this will reimburse the government for the extra interest it will be called upon to pay as a result of exchanging the twos for threes. The exchange will enable the government to provide permanently for a large portion of the interest bearing public debt at a net interest charge of one and a half per cent. This arrangement proposes a solution of what many financiers declared the greatest obstacle to the plan. It disposes permanently of the bond-secured currency without loss to the government and without imposing upon the reserve association the ownership of the $730,000,000 two per cent. bonds.

The association will agree to hold the three per cents for fifty years, but the secretary of the treasury after five years will have the option of permitting the association to sell the securities at a rate not greater than $50,000,000 a year. The government may reserve the right to redeem any of the bonds before maturity, to buy any of them at par for the trustees of the postal saving system or otherwise.

Provisions for the election of directors have been changed in the revised plan with the idea of minimizing the possibility of control by any section or group. There still will be 45 directors, as in the original plan, six members being ex-officio, viz., the governor of the association, his two deputies, the secretary of the treasury, the secretary of commerce and labor, and the comptroller of the currency. Each of the fifteen financial districts of the country will elect one director; twelve others will be elected by the shareholders; and these twenty seven will elect to the board twelve additional members, who shall not be officers of banks, but may be directors in them, and who shall fairly represent the industrial, agricultural and other interests of the country.

The completed plan provides that of the 24 directors in the latter two groups, not more than three may be elected from any one district. As an instance, the effect of this provision would be to limit the state of New York, which has about one-fifth the banking capital of the country, and which is the seat of the great financial interests, to four directors among the 39 elected.

In the organization of the executive committee of nine members, only one of the five elected members, the four others being the governor of the association, his two deputies and the comptroller of the currency, ex-officio—may be chosen from any one district.

The whole board of directors may reserve to itself any authority it desires, and is not bound to vest the executive committee with full control.

The original plan provided that the president should have power to remove the governor. The revised plan reserves the right of removal to a two-thirds vote of the board. One important change is the admission to membership of state bank and trust companies that conform to certain standards.

Requirements for reserves to be held against deposits are made the same for national banks, state banks and trust companies, but the present reserve requirements of national banks are modified to the extent of requiring no reserves against time deposits except for the thirty days preceding their maturity. This provision, which resembles thus the trust company laws of some states, is expected to make it more profitable for national banks to hold time deposits in competition with trust companies.

A provision that the association shall discount for any member notes and bills of exchange arising out of commercial transactions is further developed in the line of preventing the granting of loans upon securities. The notes and bills eligible for discount by the association are restricted to such notes and bills of exchange as are issued or drawn for agricultural, industrial or commercial purposes, and not for carrying stocks, bonds or other investment securities.

This interpretation will exclude brokers' notes for carrying stocks. Banks, under this provision, it is said, will be encouraged to carry their auxiliary reserve in commercial paper instead of call loans on the stock market. National banks will have the right to establish savings departments, and to lend not more than 40 per cent. of such deposits upon productive real estate. The National Bank act now prohibits such loans, but there is a constant demand for them in the west.

For the reserves of the association, it is proposed that fifty per cent. of its demand liabilities, including deposits and note issues, shall be covered by gold or other lawful money, with a provision that whenever the reserve falls below 50 per cent. the association is bound to pay the government a special tax, which increases in rate in proportion to the deficiency.

This plan in such instances, is expected to stimulate an increase in the rate of discount, and to bring in gold until the reserves again become normal.

Another new provision specifies that any local association may assume and exercise the powers and functions of the clearing house.

One criticism of the first plan was that there was no way to remove a bank from an association. It has been provided that a local association may suspend a bank which fails to maintain its reserve or comply with other requirements of the law.

It is provided also that the note issue of the association shall at all times be covered by at least one-third in gold or other lawful money. Any notes, however, issued in excess of $900,000,000 must either be covered by lawful money in full or pay a special tax at the rate of 1 1-2 per cent. a year. Any notes issued in excess of $1,200,000,000 not covered by lawful money will pay a tax of 5 per cent.

FACTORS IN CANADA'S PROGRESS.

The three great factors in Canada's progress are agriculture, immigration and transportation, and they are all giving good accounts of themselves, each keeping pace with the other. When one thinks of the possibilities and realizes that the dawn of a great and mighty nation is approaching you are liable to figure just what the future has in store. In western Canada alone there are 354,000,000 acres of land, of which 145,000,000 are surveyed and only 44,000,000 acres homesteaded. Only 12,000,000 acres were under grain crop last year, producing in the neighborhood of 147,000,000 bushels of wheat.

The world is beginning to realize this, as is shown by the confidence that they have in Canada's future in investing their capital in Canada and things Canadian. During the past five years Great Britain has invested $605,000,000 in Canada, mostly in railways, government and municipal debentures, and during the same period the United States has invested $226,000,000 in Canada, mostly in establishing manufacturing plants. Only last week French bankers have made known their desire to invest $50,000,000 in Canada this year. The trend of the times is fairly shown in these figures.

CAT'S LONG WALK.

Amazing Sense of Location Exhibited by Feline.

The story of a notable journey of a cat from Kongston, Surrey, to its former home at Glastonbury, in Somersetshire—a distance of about 133 miles—is now told by an astonished correspondent.

In April last a cat—mottled grey, and described as half-Persian in breed—was sent from Glastonbury, where it had been reared, to the matron of the Kingston Nursing Home. It was sent in a packing case, drilled with air holes, and obviously the animal had no opportunity of marking the points of its journey. Soon after arrival at Kingston, the cat was lost, and, despite the most diligent searching, no trace of it could be found.

The matron of the nursing home has now received a letter from Glastonbury stating that the cat has found its way back to its old home. It arrived emaciated and footsore, and apparently had walked the whole of the 133 miles.

The letter describes the cat on its arrival as "a mere shadow of its former self," and expresses the belief that, although terribly weak through its wanderings, it can be nursed back to a healthy condition.

The ADVANCE MAN

Jeanne Towler in "The White Sister."

The three greatest and most successful church or religious plays of the past twenty years are "The Christian," "The Rosary," and "The White Sister," and of the three the largest individual money-maker is "The White Sister," in which Miss Jeanne Towler is announced to appear at the Victoria theatre next Wednesday, Oct. 25.

Although "The White Sister" has a religious setting and uplifting theme it is not essentially a religious play, but partakes more of the nature and spirit of the romantic. It is that fact that sustains its popularity with the general public. It is a human story with flesh and blood characters showing the same strength and weaknesses that all human nature is subject to.

The scenes are laid in Italy and the actors in the story are Italian, but it could be laid just as well in America with an American hero and heroine. The prototypes of the characters are moving amongst us every day and often the same problem that presented itself to the "White Sister" has presented itself to an American girl.

Miss Towler will have the same advantages of scenic production and special music that was given Viola Allen by Liebler & Co.

Royal Welsh Ladies' Choir.

The ladies of the Royal Welsh Ladies' Choir, which appears at the Victoria theatre on Thursday, October 26, are beautiful and artistic, not only in their vocal attributes; they are beautiful and artistic also in their appearance. Their present tour marks a great improvement in the latter attribute, which is second only to their own gift of the art and soul of song, for whereas formerly they were attired in the full regalia of the national costume, Dame Wales is now more suggestive than real, and the result is that the stage appearance of the choir is beautiful and artistic and uncommon withal. The old stove-pipe hat is represented only by a few modified typical shapes, while the dress has taken on various designs and colors, green, the color of the leek, being the most persistent. But their American kith and kin will envy them most in their black or white evening dresses, for they really look charming when they warble their lays decked in their best finery.

"The Third Degree."

The forthcoming production of Charles Klein's latest play, "The Third Degree," which the United Play Company will present at the Victoria theatre on Friday, October 27, should arouse the interest of every playgoer, whether or not they were fortunate enough to have witnessed Mr. Klein's former success, "The Lion and the Mouse."

In his latest play, "The Third Degree," the author has seen fit to change the locale to New York City and taken for his central characters members of the old Knickerbocker set. The story deals with a young man of good parentage who is under suspicion of having occasioned the murder of a man found dead under the most peculiar circumstances. The police, in their stupidity, seeking to unravel the mystery, and anxious to fasten the guilt on someone, seize upon the boy as their victim and bring to bear the entire weight of their authority to convict him. The young man's wife, seeking to aid him, solicits the assistance of his father, and being refused, sets herself to defeat the minions of the law in their efforts to miscarry justice and with no other resources than a woman's intuition, ingenuity, cunning and courage, combats them single-handed.

The piece abounds in thrilling situations, which, if Mr. Klein had never done other than to create them, would have stamped him as a dramatist of rare ability. There is an abundant sprinkling of wholesome comedy throughout to relieve the more serious dramatic scenes.

About the Coal

The property of The American-Canadian Coal Co., Ltd., is situate at the north end of Graham Island near Masset Inlet.

Masset Inlet affords a splendid, land-locked, deep-water harbor, giving water transportation to all points on the Pacific Coast, and particularly to Prince Rupert, but 72 miles away.

Prince Rupert is destined to be one of the greatest markets for coal on the Pacific Coast—it being the western or Pacific Coast terminus of The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway now nearing completion.

There are five known seams of coal in the property—in the two main seams of which there are 27,000,000 tons of splendid coal.

To be identified with the coal areas of British Columbia means that you are taking advantage of an investment in the greatest natural resource of the province.

Coal is now and will continue to be for years to come, the premier asset of British Columbia, and will surely yield an abundant harvest of rich returns to those who take advantage of the opportunities presented by investing in its coal areas, at the inception of corporations who are developing the same.

The shrewd business man, the man who looks forward to the wonderful possibilities in the development of natural resources is the one who purchases stock in corporations at their inception, that is, he buys at the ground floor price.

By this he is certain to participate in the profit made certain by the development of such properties to commercial success.

To make money you must employ money—in other words, you must take a part of your savings and invest them in industrial enterprises offering the greatest degree of maximum security.

You know what you could have made if you had purchased a few shares in any of the shipping companies on Vancouver Island or in The Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company.

Shares which originally sold at 10c, 15c or 20c each, became worth and sold for, when the property was shipping coal, from $10 to $380 each.

There is every reason to believe that history will repeat itself in The American-Canadian Coal Co., Ltd., and that before many years The American-Canadian Coal Co., Ltd., will take its place among the active shipping mines of the Province.

This means exceptionally large returns to those who take advantage of ground floor propositions in the coal areas of the province.

REDMOND ON HOME RULE.

Irish Leader Declares Bill Must Provide for Imperial Supremacy.

Mr. John Redmond, speaking at the opening dinner of the Manchester Reform Club, on October 6, asked how did the problem of Home Rule stand today, and answered that he thought it was not too much to say that by the admission of friend and foe alike in this country they stood at last on the threshold of the reconciliation of Ireland. A great public discussion on this question was commencing. Some of their opponents in the House of Commons and out of it had declared that they—Home Rulers—were anxious to smuggle the Home Rule Bill into law. The statement was ridiculous on the face of it. There was no great problem which had been so universally discussed for twenty years, and he said for those for whom he could speak today that they courted the fullest and freest discussion of every aspect of the Home Rule cause here in England, and they were happy in the knowledge that that discussion would not be blassed and blasted as it was in 1886 and 1893 by passion and prejudice. (Cheers.)

All the conditions of the problem had changed since then. There was then what might be truly described as a state of war between the two countries, but, thank God, to-day we have peace in Ireland—(cheers)—with a state of absolute crimelessness, and all the records of crime showed that it was less rampant in Ireland than in England, Scotland, or Wales. Agrarian crime had practically disappeared, and as an instance of the orderly and well-conducted action of public opinion in Ireland he would point to the peaceful state of Dublin during the railway strike.

The main principles of Home Rule had been approved three times in succession by the electors of this country by overwhelming majorities.

What (he asked) are the main principles at stake? It is that in purely Irish local affairs, which have no concern for your Empire, which are purely local Irish affairs, the largest measure of self-government should be given to the Irish people, which is consistent with the integrity of the Empire and the supremacy of the Imperial parliament. (Cheers.)

We Irishmen—those at any rate for whom I speak, five-sixths of the elected representatives of Ireland—we accept those qualifications without hesitation or reserve. We are not asking for a co-ordinate parliament such as the Irish parliament was before the Union; we are not asking for the repeal of the Union; we are asking only for a readjustment of the terms of the Union by the creation of a subordinate parliament for the management of Irish affairs, subject always to the continued supremacy of the Imperial parliament at Westminster. (Cheers.)

We are asking for the management of our own local affairs by an executive government, which will be responsible to the public opinion of Ireland. We accept your supremacy, and we not merely accept it, but we invite you, if anyone has any doubt upon the question, to make, in the terms of your Bill, that supremacy as effective as you like.

In pursuance of the country's mandate next year the present government would introduce a Home Rule Bill to put into concrete form the principle accepted by the electors. "That Home Rule Bill," he declared, "will pass the House of Commons—(cheers)—and in spite of the House of Lords that Bill will become law in this parliament. (Great cheering.)

The religious aspect of the question had been referred to. Well, whatever their failings in Ireland were, they were not a nation of fools. (Laughter.) Their ideal of an Irish nation was one made up of all creeds and classes. To ostracise men because of their religious opinions would be the act of a nation of fools. They knew and respected their Protestant fellow countrymen. He said for himself and he believed that he spoke for every colleague in the Irish party—and the great mass of the Catholics, lay and clerical—that he would repeal Home Rule with scorn to-morrow if he thought the Bill was framed in such a way that injustice or oppression could be done to any fellow countryman because of his religious opinions. (Cheers.)

SUFFRAGISTS AND MARRIAGE.

Chicago's first suffragist marriage took place on September 28 between Edward Matt and Gertrude Ellis. Before the ceremony was performed they both visited the county recorder, with whom Mr. Matt officially filed the following affidavit to be sworn to before a notary: "To whom it may concern. —I, Edward Matt, agree to allow my wife all the privileges of a free-born American woman. She may have her own way in everything (except in buying my cigars); she is free to go and come when she likes, to choose her own friends, and I agree not to be jealous. I agree not to go gunning for a fellow because he admires her beauty or because she smiles when he tips his hat.

"I will not interfere in any of her plans. I will be good and kind to her. I promise to spill all my earnings into her lap, and it shall be her privilege to do with it as she likes so long as she feeds me well. When we have a surplus and it goes into the bank I agree that I will not hold the keys. Cheques may be signed by both to make them good. I promise not to be afraid to go home at night, and to be there at all proper times or to make valid excuses. I further agree not to talk about the pies my mother used to make, or to grumble because the buns are soggy. I further agree to let her get a Reno divorce right here in Chicago if I do not behave as a kind, loving, gentle and considerate husband."

YOUNGEST TOWN CLERK.

The Municipal Council of Byron, New South Wales, has the youngest town clerk in the world. Her name is Emily M'Sheehy, and she is just 17. Miss M'Sheehy's father was the first town clerk, and she had acted as his assistant for a year, doing so well that the councillors unanimously elected her to the position.

MY BOAT

SOMETIMES, in my boat, when the waters are flowing,
I lie back and watch the green leaves
softly blowing,
And dream, dream, dream.

Long vistas I see through the boughs of the trees.
Hark! A bird on a twig drowns the buzz of the bees,
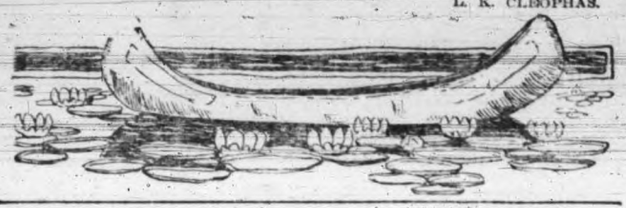
And swings, swings, swings.

Then nearer and nearer to shore do I creep,
'Til I reach the green banks, where I lie down to sleep.
To the song of the river that calls to the deep
I dream, dream, dream.

L. K. CLEOPHAS.



The Minstrel Who Saved His King

RICHARD the Lionhearted, at once the most feared and beloved of his subjects, was about to set sail from Palestine for England.

The scene was one of confusion, and the bright colors of Briton and Saracen mingled and made the scene of the embarkment a gorgeous one.

Richard had come out from England to wage war against the Saracens, but, owing to a newly formed friendship for Saladin, their leader, had declared a truce of three years duration.

Finally the ship hove anchor and the vessel sailed out to sea with a favorable wind.

The voyage, for a time, was calm, the waves smooth and the wind steady. When they had been three days out, however, a great storm arose. The waves dashed mountain high, the wind howled fiercely and before long the frail ship had been driven up by the breakers and wrecked on an unknown shore.

Many of Richard's knights were drowned, but he struggled manfully with the waves, and after a time reached the shore alive. Bruised and sore he dragged himself up on the beach.

A glance showed him that the country was wild and rugged, and the king breathed a sigh of relief.

In those days no man's life was safe in a foreign land. Slowly and carefully Richard, not daring to make known who he was, made his precarious way through dense woods and over bleak mountains.

At a great risk, Richard secured the disguise of a pilgrim, and by this means obtained shelter under the roof of some pious woodsman. But more often than not did he sleep on the forest ground, with leaves for his canopy and stars for his roof. At last, traveling steadily northwest, Richard reached a more thickly populated country. On the evening of a long day he came within sight of a grim old castle, with walls of thick, rough-hewn stone. Near the castle was a village, and at the entrance to the village a small inn.

"Whose castle stands yonder?" asked Richard of a boy driving cows.

The youth's eyes opened widely as he answered:

"Know you not? 'Tis the duke of Austria's, to be sure. Methought every churl knew that."

Richard started.

The duke, whom he had fought in Palestine, was the last person whom he wished to see. But he could not well turn back. Coming to the inn, he passed through a broad gate, which led into a courtyard, where knights were jousting.

One was the duke himself.

"Ho, there!" cried he. "Whence come you, what are you and what will you here?"

"I am a woodcutter," answered Richard, "and would take service with you."

"I have seen you wield an ax," laughed the duke, "and a heavy one it was, too. You swung it 'gainst the heads of Saracens. Speak I not truly?"

"Yea," answered Richard, quietly.

"Hast forgotten Ascalon?" queried the duke, derisively.

"Nay," answered Richard. "'Twas where I kicked the duke of Austria for impudence."

"Know you now," cried the duke, "that the kick will be returned with interest. What ho, guards! Seize this man. Bind him with chains and imprison him in the tower!"

A year passed away and England had no tidings of the king. It was known that he had started home from the holy land. They had heard rumors of the wreck and that he was prisoner in some far country.

Among the many to whom Richard had been kind was a talented minstrel lad, Blondel de Nesle. No singer in the world excelled the sweetness of Blondel's voice. Richard had whiled away many an hour composing songs, which the lad had set to music, and a strong undying love grew up between them.

Blondel was inconsolable at the absence of his king. Finally he set out in search of him. Slinging his harp on his back, he struck out for the open road, swearing to fulfill his quest.

Many were the lands through which he traveled, many were the castles he visited and the songs he sung, all the while searching, searching, searching for his master. Many were the friends he made, for the sweetness of his clear voice drew all hearts to him.

One day he paused at an inn on the edge of a huge forest. Nearby gleamed the turrets of a gray, rough-hewn castle.

"Whose castle stands yonder?" asked he.

"The duke of Austria's; but he is not there now."

"Are there prisoners in the dungeons?" asked Blondel.

"Only one," answered the innkeeper, "and he must be of value, for he is well guarded and fed."

As evening drew near Blondel took up his harp and made his way to the castle. His voice won him ingress at once, and so charmed were the inhabitants with his ballads that they begged him to stay with them a while. This Blondel agreed to do.

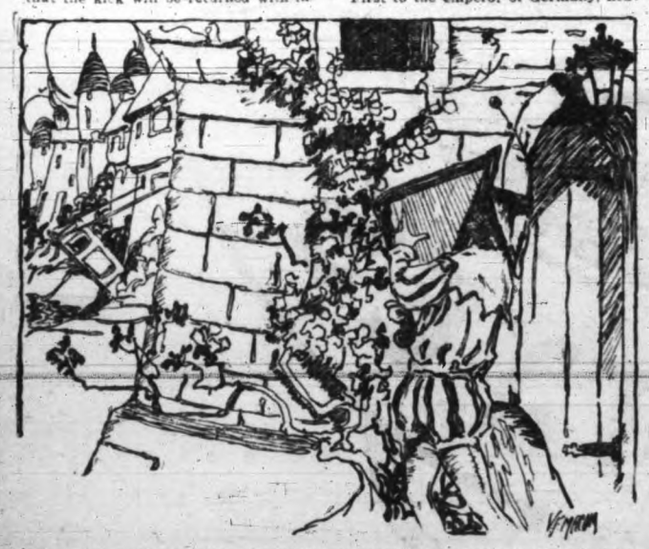
Toward evening of the next day Blondel took up his harp and stole with it out of the castle until he was beneath the barred windows of the dungeon tower. Sitting on a stone he tuned his harp and in a sweet, plaintive voice began one of the songs which he and Richard together had composed. He strained his ears, his heart yearning for some answering sound from the dungeon cell.

Suddenly he paused. Far up in the tower a sad, clear voice answered his own in the well-known words. Blondel fell on his knees. King Richard was singing his heart out. Suddenly the boy leaped to his feet.

"Oh, Richard, my king! My king!" breathed he, though his trembling lips could scarcely form the words. Then he hastened away to find means to free his master.

First to the emperor of Germany, next to the king of France and finally back to the green shores of England. And everywhere he spread the tidings that Richard the Lionhearted was a prisoner in the hold of the Austrian duke. A huge ransom must be paid to set him free.

Eleanor, Richard's mother, and the faithful Blondel worked without ceasing to effect the prisoner's release. Together, when the money had been raised, did they travel to Germany and place the ransom in the cruel duke's hands; and when at last the beloved king was free Blondel was first to welcome him back to his home and the green fields and hedgerows of "Merrie England."



BOBBY'S LESSON

EARLY spring was advancing, and all the fairies were busy making apple, peach and pear blossoms, and all other kinds of blooms that make this time of year the most beautiful of the seasons. Little Bobby was hurrying on his legs toward the schoolhouse, but his fancy was trying to take him in the other direction, to the woods. At the fork of the road, where he was finally to settle this important question, he stood for one minute, wavering. "Go to school," said the still, small voice. "Come with me," said the airy sprite, "and I will show you the wood nymphs' treasures."

Bobby was human, and in spite of his goodness turned where fancy led. How easily he sped on with his blithe companion, and how she chattered and amused him, so that soon all the hard questions in arithmetic which he had tried to store in his little head were fast flying through the air, far away. "Oh," said Bobby, drawing a happy breath of freedom, "how lovely everything looks and how beautiful you are! What makes you so?"

"I take lessons every day in beauty's school," said the fairy.

"School?" said Bobby turning red. "I thought that you did not believe in it."

"Our lessons are not like yours," said his companion; "still we have to study something new daily. I will show you how," she said, taking his hand. "It is time for Dame Nature to begin."

"Is she very strict?" said Bobby, dependently.

"Yes; you must make no mistakes with her, else she will not let you try at all."

"Oh, as for that," said Bobby, "I wouldn't care—"

"Oh, yes you would," the fairy replied. "You would find being out of school out of everything."

But Bobby was hard to convince and decided only to look on.

Just then there was a murmuring in the pines and all the little leaves were joyful, and the ferns came out of their naps suddenly.

"See," said the fairy, "school has begun, and what you hear is the opening exercises."

"But," said Bobby, "I don't see any Dame at all."

"That makes no difference," said his companion; "she is here, and the roll-call will be next."

"What does that mean?" Bobby asked. "And how will I know?"

"Why, then they will ring the Blue Bell, the Indian-Pipes will be laid aside, the day's lesson will be read by Jack-in-the-Pulpit, Johnny-Jump-Up will recite, Black-Eyed Susan and Sweet William will distribute furs and Lady's-Slippers to those who want them. Little Pussy-Willow will come in leading faithful old Dog-Wood who, though only an animal, is always the first to come out. Spring-Beauty, Wood-Violet and A-Nemone are among the kindergartners, and are all so pretty and sweet. Oh!" said the fairy, "you cannot help but like it and to join in, too."

But Bobby, daring to shook his head, and although feeling a change of heart, pretended not to.

"Well, if you want," said the fairy, "come into the school, as all are now busy."

"I don't hear any noise," said Bobby, "nor is any one being punished."

The fairy looked sorrowful for a minute and then said, "Sometimes they Whip-poor-Will when he steals too many cherries; but that is very painful and please don't ask me about it."

"I won't," said Bobby, "if it hurts you," and, changing the subject safely, asked, "Who else?"

"Rose Mary says it is Four o'Clock, but the Dandy-Lion is not dressed yet, and the Maiden's Hair is still down; but we are losing the best of school by idle questions. The Buttercup's chorus has just begun, and the Lute's Strings are being tuned for the Tulip's song. Lily-of-the-Valley, Moss Rose and Marguerite are arriving, and back of them I see poor little Ragged-Robin, who is hiding behind the shrubs. But once in school," said the fairy, "every one is equal, because all are aiming for the same prize—which is perfection, and can only be attained by paying attention to all the rules. No one watches the others, and the time passes only too quickly. Some of the younger scholars go to sleep early in the day, and although their school is over them, they always accomplish their given tasks. We are all happy, and every one rejoices in the other's success. Harmony helps us on, as each one feels it but adds to the general beauty, as I told you at first, our school is named so. I see the Dame asking about you. She cannot understand your idleness. I am afraid that unless you consent to work, she will not let you stay. The example would be bad for the others, except that they have no time to look around; but I will ask her," said the fairy, kindly, "to make an exception in your case."

Bobby looked gratefully at her, but felt very much ashamed. The fairy returned in a minute, saying that the Dame was willing that he should stay, but she expected him to do something for her later, in return for the favor.

"I will do anything," said Bobby, "another day; but, kind fairy, please let me go now to my own school, as here I am in the way, and you have shown me that those who play will miss the best of life, and that only through work can any happiness come to us. I have been naughty, but I will not forget this lesson soon, and hope that the future will show that I haven't. Tell the Dame that whenever she wants me, I am ready to help her, and she has only to ask for 'Bobby-Link' at any telegraph pole."

The fairy patted his cheeks, and all the trees waved their little green handkerchiefs in unison until he was far out of sight.

THE GIRL CAPTAIN

DORIS looked up with a light shining in her blue eyes.

"I wish that girls ever did brave things like the boy heroes of whom one reads. Girls aren't good for much in war-time, are they, Uncle Tom?"

Uncle Tom opened his eyes, which were blue, like Doris', very wide in surprise.

"For a well-read little girl, Doris, that is a queer question. But, come to think of it, not very many people know of the girl heroes of history."

Doris kept very still, for Uncle Tom had on his story face.

"One of the finest instances of pure grit and daring was exhibited by the 14-year-old daughter of the commander of a French fort, which stood on the St. Lawrence river, twenty miles below the city of Montreal.

"The child's name was Madeline de Vercheres.

"One golden autumn day in 1692 Madeleine, with a servant, stood at a little distance from the open gate of the fort, watching the distant figures at work in the fields.

"Her father, the commander, was at Quebec on business with his wife. In the stockade there were two soldiers, Madeleine's two young brothers, a very old man and several women and children.

"At the time of which I speak the fort inclosure, blockhouse and stockade were open, their inhabitants at work in distant fields.

"All of a sudden the rattling of arms startled the girl. Straining her eyes, she could see men running in the far-off fields. At the same time the blood-curdling whoop of the Iroquois rent the air, and, turning, the girl saw some fifty savages running toward the open gates of the stockade, hoping to surprise it while the main band attacked the men in the outlying fields.

"The girl was slim and fleet. She turned and, with the lightness of a deer, sped for the fort.

"The Iroquois, seeing that she could not be captured alive, fired repeatedly at her. The bullets whistled and sang about her head, and years seemed to her to pass ere she gained the shelter of the fort.

"Just in the nick of time she shut the gate.

"Inside, women were wailing and children crying.

"The two soldiers were so terrified that they had hidden in the blockhouse.

"Madeleine lost not a moment. She made a rapid inspection of the fort and found that several palisades were down, affording an easy entrance to the enemy. She soon had the soldiers at work, and the palisades in position.

"When this had been attended to she raced to the blockhouse, wherein was kept the ammunition.

"Arming her brothers, she picked up a gun herself and prepared to fight to the death.

"She and they were soon stationed at loopholes and began to use their arms with good effect.

"The redskins, ignorant of the weakness of the defense, drew back, and remained quiet for some time. Suddenly a canoe with several passengers on board appeared upon the river.

"Madeleine recognized a settler and his family as the occupants, and immediately a daring plan formulated in her active brain.

"She went out alone from the stockade to the landing place to receive them. The redskins, seeing the child alone meet the newcomers, suspected an ambush if they should venture from their hiding places, and allowed Madeleine to bring Fontaine and his family into the fort unmolested.

"Madeleine laughed aloud. She had expected this, and she rejoiced to find that her garrison now numbered six.

"She ranged her little force at the loopholes, ordering that a redskin's appearance should be the signal for his being fired upon.

"Evening brought a hard hailstorm, and the night set in cold and very dark.

"The Iroquois lurked about, and every instant the poor child feared that they would climb into the fort under cover of the inky darkness. Madeleine and the old man took care of the fort, while Fontaine and the soldiers went to the blockhouse with the women and children. Madeleine placed her young brothers on two of the bastions, while the old man took the third and she took the fourth.

"Continually the men shouted from the fort to the blockhouse and from the blockhouse to the fort, it sounded as though the place were full of men, and had the desired effect upon the Iroquois.

"About 1 o'clock in the morning the old man on the bastion cried out:

"'I hear something, mademoiselle.' Outside the remnants of the cattle thundered up to the fort.

"After a little reflection, the gates were flung open and the animals came in.

"Madeleine got neither sleep nor food for forty-eight hours. She tramped from the bastions to the blockhouse, keeping a bright smile and a cheery word for every one.

"For a whole week she held the fort against the wily enemy.

"Late one night a sound from the river brought a sharp 'Who goes there?' from the sentinel.

"'De la Monnerie,' was the answer. 'Open quickly. I have brought you help!'

"The gates were opened and the plucky little commander relieved. The savages fled, but many were captured before reaching Lake Champlain."

"Did the little girl heroine ever grow up?" asked Doris, breathlessly.

"Yes," answered Uncle Tom, "and ever afterward received a handsome pension from the king of France, who honored her. She died a loved and reverenced woman when she was very old."

Doris drew a long breath. "There were few boy heroes as brave as that," she cried. "I'm delighted that I'm a girl."

GUESTS OF A WAR WOMAN

THE war woman, Nancy Hart, shaded her eyes with her hand as standing at the door of her log cabin, she gazed up and down the sun-flecked road.

Nancy had been restless all morning, waiting on pins and needles for the first sign of the bands of Tories which she knew to be on the road.

"They are more brave than they think for," she reflected grimly, "to venture into the hornet's nest!"

She looked down to the swamp where she knew her husband and three other men lay in hiding and chuckled as she thought how quickly the conch shell concealed by the spring would bring them to the rescue. They had agreed to let one blast mean, the Tories are near; two blasts, wanted at the cabin, and three, that it would be best to go to another swamp. With a little impatient movement she turned again to the house and her work.

Soon, however, the sound of pounding hoofs startled her, and catching up the heavy rolling pin with which she had been rolling dough, she took up her station at the door of the cabin. Over the hill rode five Tories, who let down some bars and dismounted at her door. Nancy's eyes were busy. She recognized in them the most brutal band in the region.

The leader advanced, but the woman did not flinch.

"Did you hide a rebel in your house—a slight, light fellow—the other day from the pursuit of the king's men?"

"Yes," said Nancy, calmly. "I did. Do you want to hear more about it?"

Her bright eyes bored through the officer and made him uncomfortable.

"The boy came riding down the hill with that bloodthirsty pack of hounds, the Tories, at his heels. I saw him coming and let down the bars. He rode straight through the house and hid in the swamp. I put up the bars and shut the doors.

"Up thundered the Tories, calling to me, so I opened the door and faced them. They were as blown as girls and said that they had chased a Whig that way, wanting to know if I had seen any one. I thought for a minute, and said I had just seen a man of their description turn into the woods a couple of hundred yards up the hill.

"They yelled like a pack of coyotes and started off in pursuit. Fools didn't have sense enough to look and see his tracks this side of the bars. Bah!"

"Stop your gabble," said the leader, angrily, "and feed us."

"Something I never do," said Nancy, "is feed traitors."

With an oath ripped out behind clenched teeth the officer sprang toward her, but Nancy merely took a tighter hold of the rolling pin and waited for the onslaught. It did not come. The man was not game for that deadly rolling pin. He drew up shortly.

"Oh, come now," he said, soothingly, "we've had no food today; give us something, like a good soul."

"There isn't a porker on the place," avowed Nancy.

"But there is a fowl."

Quickly the Tory lifted his gun and fired. A fine turkey gobbler fell at once. With a laugh the man cast the dead bird at the woman's feet. The red slowly mounted Nancy's leathery cheeks, but not for a moment did she release her grip on her temper. Without a word she stooped and picked up the fowl and began to clean it.

"Come here, Sukey," she called to her little daughter. "I shall want water to cook this in. Run to the spring and bring some." Then in a quick low tone, "Blow one blast on the conch," she added.

Sukey nodded. She was her mother's daughter and very quick-witted.

Without more ado Nancy prepared the gobbler for her unwelcome guests. Deftly she laid the table and waited upon the men.

"Give us something to drink," cried the leader when the meal had begun.

"In a moment," replied Nancy. Soon she returned from the cellar with a huge jug.

The men were delighted. They had not noted the expression on her face as she left the dining room. The laughter about the board became hilarious. Deftly Nancy filled and refilled the glasses.

"Dang this stuff!" cried one of the men. "I'd rather have water. Give me some!" he demanded.

A light gleamed in the back of Nancy's eyes.

"Sukey," she said, "go to the spring with the bucket. Blow twice on the conch," she added.

The child fulfilled her mission and soon returned, helping her mother to give water to the thirsty men. Again Nancy filled their glasses from the jug, then quietly and deliberately pulled several bits of chinking from the open logs of the cabin.

The Tories had leaned their guns against the wall.

Nancy, without attracting any attention, slipped a couple of guns through the opening.

As she seized the third gun one of the men noticed the woman's action. "What are you doing, woman?" cried one of the men. All five jumped to their feet.

"Kill her! Kill her!" was the cry.

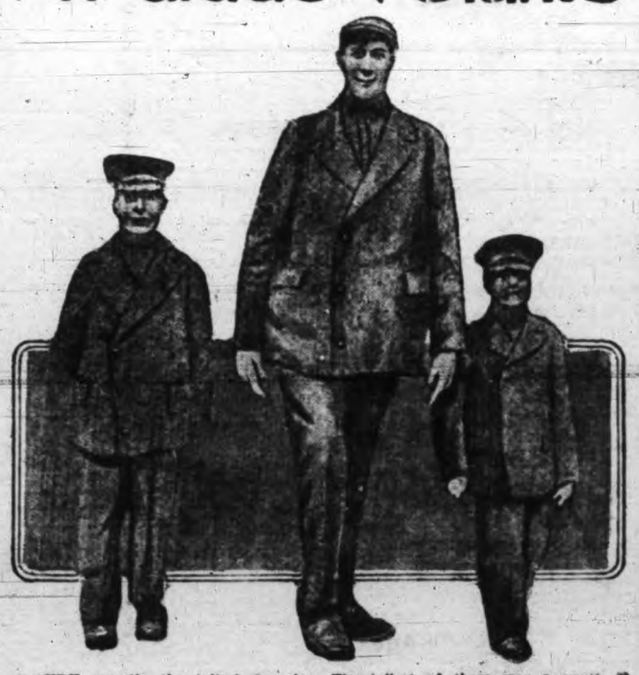
"Stay where you are," came the war woman's low, calm voice. "I'll shoot the first man who moves." All that could be heard in the still room was the forced breathing of the tense figures. Nancy's arms were beginning to tire.

Would help never come! Suddenly beside her she saw the muzzle of a gun pushed through the opening she had made. Another and another appeared.

Then a succession of shots rang out, and three of the cowardly Tories fell in a heap. The others ran into their captors at the door. The war woman smiled grimly when she saw them bound. Then, all woman again, she procured warm water and tenderly bathed the wounded.

For Nancy Hart was a true woman, renowned as much for her tenderness as for daring.

A Parade of Giants



VERY recently the tallest men in England came together to take part in the Festival of Empire held at the Crystal Palace, London. This was one of the big events of the coronation season and brought together many young men of abnormal height. The tallest of these was a youth 20 years of age, who stands some 7 feet 3¾ inches in his stocking feet. His name is Fred Kempster and his trade is that of a basketmaker in Woodford, Essex. He is enormously strong and is very good natured.

LAURIER IN DEFEAT AND BORDEN CABINET

E. W. Thompson in Boston Transcript Reviews Results of Election

"Where MacGregor sits, there is the head of the table." Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in opposition as in office, remains the one supremely interesting figure in Canada. Hence Transcript readers will not quarrel with me for telling something about him before remarking on the personnel of the Borden Cabinet. I chanced to travel on the same car with him from Montreal to Ottawa day before yesterday. Nobody else on board was so cheerful as the chief until, after some talk with him, a matter in which all the passengers seemed privileged. The Great Man was looking very well. He was particularly interested in what one who was returning from Boston and New York had to report concerning the condition of American feeling about Canada's rejection of reciprocity. The report was, in essence, that Brother Jonathan seemed rather amused, as a man is when a small and cantankerous boy tries to kick his shins. This was qualified by observations from certain American thinkers who had been consulted. They had been and still were hopeful of an increasing friendliness between the Republic and the Dominion, mainly because it would conduce to that tendency toward a union of hearts between the States and Great Britain which has been so much promoted by men of goodwill during the last decade. These reflective persons yet feared evil results, not so much from the wonrous rejection of reciprocity as from the truly diabolical attacks on American character, on Uncle Sam, and on Mr. Taft, by Canadian Tory and Tariff-grafter cartoons and editorials in the Montreal Star, and some other organs of pure deviltry. It appears that knowledge of these scoundrelly incitements to international hatred has been more widely spread in the States than Canadians supposed. It was remarked that November elections in the Republic valuably held attention there from consideration of what might best be done to meet the novel situation semi-duly arising from an apparent victory in Canada of haters of the American neighbor. It was feared that memory of this might be refreshed after the November elections, especially when Congress shall have assembled. Some pro-British Americans surmised that the effect might be to disincline Democrats to favor Canada in any reductions of the Washington tariff which they might be able to produce. They even supposed it possible that Uncle Sam, if he must forsake his long dream that Canadians are essentially friendly to him, may take very seriously into consideration the interests of his posterity, as affected by the growth of a Northern power now seeming to boast undying animosity against the people.

Particulars of such forebodings by American thinkers, all hitherto profoundly friendly to Canada, to Great Britain and to the idea of an English-speaking alliance, were related to Sir Wilfrid, but are here suppressed, as mere specification of them might tend to harm. His characteristic optimism, though not wholly undisturbed, gave him hope that "this too will pass." He inclined to believe that the Republicans—and he could hope the Democrats also—would be moved to keep the reciprocity act on the Washington statute book, thus continuing to hold out to Canada a friendly offer. If this were done, the cause of reciprocity should not be regarded as killed by the late Canadian elections. This view comes of increasing information as to how they were won and analysis of the polling. (Let it be understood that I am not quoting Laurier.) It is now known that a systematic Tory canvassing attack on him, particularly in the rural districts and towns of Ontario, was based on his being Catholic and French. There he was charged with responsibility for the "Ne temere" decree against mixed Catholic and Protestant marriages. He was charged with accountability for last year's Eucharistic Congress in Montreal. This deviltry was invented and particularly incited by a certain deserter from the Laurier ranks. At the same time Sir Wilfrid was assailed by an influential section of the Quebec Catholic clergy as a traitor to his church, inasmuch as he had not arbitrarily intrenched its cohorts and the French tongue in the new Western Provinces. Consider also the tariff-grater dodge of threatening operatives with loss of employment in case reciprocity in natural products should win. Remark also the Bourassan agitation in Quebec against the navy project. Do not forget that some Ontario Liberal elements were no more pleased than the French with proposals that Canada should be bound forever to go afloat in aid of any war of Great Britain.

On all these accounts it cannot be said, accurately, that reciprocity was clearly beaten. There is life in it yet, vigorous life. The prairie provinces are almost solid for it. The maritimers gave it a handsome majority. If Americans will but continue their admirable patience, the victors of last month will probably be soundly whipped here at the next general elections. These cannot be staved off long, not two years at the utmost. A redistribution of provincial representation must be soon made on the basis of last June's census. That will increase the representation of the reciprocitarian West by some twenty-two to twenty-seven members. It will also probably increase reciprocitarian Quebec's representation, while Ontario's will probably be slightly reduced.

A distinct reciprocity action is already visible in Ontario. The pact was beaten in part because many who voted against it, or abstained, were sure it would win. Hence they did not think their votes necessary to its success at the polls. Tariff-grafter canvassers worked a shrewd dodge all over the country. They told Conservative reciprocitarians that the "pact" was a sure winner, and entreated them to stand by their old party, lest it be wiped out. They had a variation on this for the Liberal farmer, saying "You need not bother voting for reciprocity—it will be certainly carried—you are a Protestant—why make the Catholic-Frenchman's majority too big—stay at home, old man—attend to your September root crop, cattle, dairying, threshing—you've got to get your grain ready for the boom in price that reciprocity will bring."

All this humbug is now recalled. The Canadian farmer everywhere understands that he was bamboozled. He will take his revenge next time—within two years—if Washington continue to keep the reciprocity act alive. Laurier will not desert the good cause. He is profoundly convinced that Canadians, even the jingos, will more and more come to an understanding of the great value of the "pact" in promoting international friendship, and particularly in furthering good relations between the United Kingdom and the Republic. It is in relation to this that his strongest regret for the temporary defeat consists. His word is that all will come right if the American people go on evincing the admirable good humor they have displayed under the atrocious insults consequent on Tariff-grafter direction of the jingo press of Canada. Of course he did not use the term "Tariff-grafter." That amiable phrase is my own. It is truth in a nutshell. It helps to indicate a deep inward and spiritual conviction that "protection" is, as John Brown called slavery, "the sum of abominations." Laurier holds that the unspeakably damnable thing cannot be abolished speedily in any country where it has once been rooted, since such abolition would destroy a lot of invested capital and throw many citizens out of their jobs. Out-and-out free traders remember that the very same argument was employed to buttress black slavery. They worship John Brown's memory because he said, in effect, "To hell with the capital and the jobs dependent on such iniquity." We chastening free traders feel it a duty to shake our objurgations irresponsibly, scattering the seed in hope that it will fall on fertile ground. Laurier's business is to administer public affairs. He has to remember that he will probably be doing it at the old stand within two years.

Though he was in tip-top shape on the specified train, he caught cold in Montreal. That has laid him up for a rest. His enormous labors in the campaign have to be paid for physically. He needs a holiday, and will soon start for California, probably.

Now for the less important matter of Premier R. L. Borden's cabinet. It consists of the best he could do to include and to pacify the comically various elements that helped him to win. The finance minister, Mr. White, is the surprise of the lot. This is not saying that he may not prove a very able man. He looks like one. He spoke as well as any man could who had nothing better than nonsense to utter against reciprocity during the late campaign. He is, however, wholly a stranger to parliament and its manner of debate. A seat must be found for the novice. He was a pocket-liberal till lately, one contented with the Laurier ministry so long as it did little for the people save what was approved by the Big Interests—that loose but powerful ring of tariff-grafting manufacturers, banks, trust companies, railway magnates, etc. Mr. White appears devoted to the rankest protectionism. He is a political chum of redolent Clifford Sifton, a fellow bolter. He is the head of the National Trust Company, headquarters at Toronto. Already some of the Tory "regulars" in that town are roaring "Why was this Grit appointed instead of one of our dear selves?" The reason is plain. Mr. White's inclusion will enable the Borden ministry to pose as a coalition of bolting Liberals and real Tories, thus claiming the title Sir John Macdonald invented for his party, that of "Liberal-Conservative," which reminds one of "South by North" and "Good Lord, good devil." It can be reasonably presumed that Mr. White will continue the Fielding tariff, or one so much like it that t' other can't be told from which. "Let well enough alone," was one of his election cries. The Fielding tariff yields large revenues. It is only too protective to tariff grafters. For all anybody can surely tell Mr. White may prove a wise and good finance minister. If he is a tyro so was Lloyd George not very long ago. It is conceivable that the ceremony of taking the oath of privy councillor may be taken so seriously by Mr. White that he may disappoint certain money-mongers. They want a revision of the banking act to suit bankers and a revision of the insurance act to suit stockholding gangs who wish to exploit policyholders.

Mr. George Eulas Foster, formerly finance minister in Sir John Macdonald's Tory cabinet, then produced deficits as naturally as a fish swims. Hence the harmless and almost irresponsible ministry of trade and commerce has been allotted to him. He is a shiver-my-timbers orator. There really isn't another thing against him, save that he failed to get a verdict against the editor of the Toronto Globe, whom he sued for slander for terming him a swindler, or grabber of secret commissions from parties to whom he stood in a fiduciary relation. In this matter it seems to me that Mr. Foster was pretty harshly used and distinctly unlucky—in being found out. He is a rip-snorting jingo and a life-long teetotal advocate. Of late years Mr. Foster's misfortunes have mollified him to a demeanor sometimes almost likeable. There may be much joy over him if he continue in the way to become a clubable man.

The delightsomest thing is that Colonel Sam Hughes is minister of militia and defence—aggression should be added to his official title. The Honorable Sam is brave; he admits it himself, who ought to know. He served in South Africa. His own letters to his own paper then depicted the Boers as trembling at his name. Once he wrote home on the eve of catching the famous

CASTE IN THE CHURCH.

Bishop of London Tells Why It Has Little Influence on Rising Democracy.

The Church Congress, meeting at Stoke, in the heart of the Potteries district, found its discussions turning naturally to social and industrial questions; while an atmosphere of liberalism and tolerance pervaded even those which dealt with questions of purely ecclesiastical or theological interest.

There were about 2,000 clergy and laity present, and the pressure on the accommodation in Stoke was so great that many of the members had to go from door to door, begging to be taken in on any terms.

The congress, dividing itself into sections, proceeded to opening services in the parish churches of Stoke, Hanley, and Newcastle-under-Lyne. They marched, robed, in processions, and attracted much popular attention. "Wycliffe Preachers," mounted on a lorry near the Stoke church, angered by the birettas worn by some of the clergy, shouted: "It's only priests of the Romish church that wear birettas"; and "When are you going to join the Pope?" "The day is coming when you will be expelled from England as undesirable aliens." "There is no room for Popery in England," and "Oh, for an hour of Cromwell!"

A policeman then put an end to the demonstration.

The Bishop of London, preaching in the Stoke church on "New Wine in New Bottles," asked, "Why has the church not more influence than it has upon the rising democracy to-day?" It was no question of church or chapel; no other one religious organization had more influence than the Church of England; but why had organized labor so little to say to organized Christianity as a whole? There was a strong new wine working in the hearts and brains of thousands to-day. Thousands believed that there was a possibility of equality of opportunity for all; that the grinding poverty to be seen in great cities was unnecessary and should come to an end; and they looked forward with hope to a day when each child should have a chance and no one should be, to use a terrible phrase, "damned into the world."

Thousands, in short, believed that literally a Kingdom of God was at hand. They were set on seeing the beginning of a heaven on earth.

It was a modest enough Kingdom of God which they expected. They did not crave for large mansions or princely incomes, but for more time to think; for greater leisure from toil; for a living wage; for a help towards being independent in old age, instead of going to the workhouse, for co-operation, the ruling motive of life, and work, instead of cut-throat competition; for peace among nations instead of war.

This was the beautiful dream which was at the bottom of the labor movement in this country. He noticed with thankfulness that the labor movement in this country was avowedly and definitely religious, as witness the address in labor week by eleven labor members of parliament and the participation of them and others in Christian work. It went far to bear out the contention of Bishop Crighton that England was still much the most religious nation in the world.

But why were scarcely any of these men belonging to the Church of England? Why in the recent strike had the church little influence? Why had they not turned to the church which was founded 2,000 years ago to hold up their just ideal to the world? Why were they not looking more than they were to the historic church of Jesus Christ for sympathy, guidance, and advice?

He believed the first reason was that, consciously or unconsciously, the clergy were influenced still by class prejudices, and that this spoilt the real sympathy which they wished to give. The second reason was that the toiling millions had no interest in the controversies of the two rival camps of High Church and Low Church. There was nothing wrong, in his opinion, with the church or its sacraments, its ministry or its ceremonial. But that fatal class prejudice and caste feeling must be laid aside and for ever.

Every man had two sides to his character. They must give up the "parish manner" and let their working-class friends come through it into the other side, where they kept their real tastes, their real loves, their real aspirations, and make them at home with their true selves. They must cease to believe that anyone who did not come regularly to their church was therefore irreligious, and must frankly recognize that good in any form could only come from God.

They must lay aside their garment of superiority as their Master did, and ask if they might be allowed to serve; and then he believed that they would be astonish at the change which in time would take place. Might this congress help to turn the tide!

The Bishop of Lichfield, in his presidential address, said that whilst church men were contending for the enforcement of this or that interpretation of their formularies, or this or that opinion on questions of church order and discipline, they must take heed that they did not confound their own opinion with the faith and alienate those who believed in God, in Christ, and in the Holy Spirit with a personal faith and experience truer and stronger and more vital than their own, but who did not and could not accept the human and limited opinion or interpretations of any past age.

The bishop spoke regretfully of the gradual usurpation by the clergy of the entire government of the church, and urged the admission of the laity to their proper share therein. This, he believed, would lead to an access of spiritual power to the whole body, whose influence for good would be irresistible.

He advocated active co-operation by the church in municipal work of social utility, and expressed the hope that the social and industrial storms of the times might lead to a readjustment of the several parts of the structure of society and to their establishment on a firmer foundation, of which righteousness and Divine law would be the corner stone.

MOSAIC GLASS CURTAIN.

The new National Theatre at Mexico City will have an exquisite mosaic glass curtain composed of nearly 1,000,000 pieces of glass. The curtain, which is described in Popular Mechanics magazine, combines beauty with security against fire. The pieces of glass were inlaid one by one into concrete composition, impervious alike to heat and moisture. The task occupied twenty expert workmen for something more than fifteen months, and when completed covered 2,500 square feet and weighed twenty-seven tons.

In 1897 there were 188,844 miles of railroad in the United States and in 1909 236,768 miles, an increase of 21.7 per cent.

DEER ATTACKS LONE FISHERMAN

Sheriff Law Has Exciting Experience — Narrowly Escapes Being Drowned

Revelstoke, Oct. 19.—While out fishing down the Arrow Lakes Sheriff W. J. Law reports having had a most unique experience and a very narrow and lucky escape in an escapade with a large buck deer.

Early in the morning Mr. Law was sitting on a rock at the edge of the water with his fishing rod in his hand when all of a sudden a big buck deer sprang from the bush which was in close proximity to the water, and charged the sheriff, knocking him into the icy water. On rising to his feet again the sheriff found the animal coming at him again with both front feet in the air and striking for his breast. With considerable presence of mind Mr. Law threw his hands in front of him and giving them an outward sweep separated the limbs of the deer, which came down over both wrists and severely skinned them. By this action man and deer were in close embrace and both in the water. The sheriff then realizing that something must be done as the animal was apparently desperate, grappled with him and succeeded in holding the animal's head under water for some time. The chilling effect of the water, however, on the sheriff, who has been ill for some time, and the terrific struggle which he had with the animal, had considerably fatigued him and he decided that it was best to let the deer go before he could drag him out into deep water or get the best of him in his death struggle. This he did and much to the surprise and pleasure of the sheriff the animal shook his stubby little tail and meandered back into the bush from whence he came.

Old experienced hunters say that it is very seldom that a deer will attack a man in this manner without any provocation whatever, but they explain that probably this outlaw had become practically mad owing to the persecutions of the younger males in the herd which had mastered him and driven him from their company.

PROPOSED CAFE LICENSE.

Kamloops, Oct. 19.—At a recent meeting of the city council a communication was received from Dr. Spencer, president of the Local Option League of B. C., relative to the amendment of the liquor license by-law. The letter was received and filed.

The by-law to amend the trades license by-law was read a second time and considered in committee. The amendment provides for sale of intoxicants in cafes on payment of $25 half-yearly, and it was proposed to limit such licenses to two. Another clause puts a tax on autos for hire of $5 per year.

A warm discussion over licensed cafes took place. Ald. Crawford, Graham and Bauman were against it.

The mayor saw no harm in granting a license to a first class restaurant, of which Kamloops was badly in need, but care should be taken that they be conducted properly.

Ald. Graham said Vancouver had great difficulty regulating licensed cafes.

Ald. Crawford thought there were enough places now in which liquor was sold. He cited Revelstoke as having a first class restaurant in which no liquor was sold.

Ald. Graham and Bauman spoke to the same effect.

Ald. Rushton opposed it on the ground that the fee was too low, and the proposal to limit to two left a loophole for corruption.

Ald. Graham moved that the clause empowering the license commissioners to grant licenses to restaurants be struck out. The mayor moved in amendment that the by-law be hoisted for six months. Ald. Crawford and Graham objected. However, the amendment carried.

PECULIAR DEATH.

New Westminster, Oct. 19.—Frederick W. Thompson, aged 41 years, a native of Scotland, met death in a peculiar manner at Coquitlam lake. Thompson, who was a member of the B. C. Association of Stationary Engineers, was employed by the Vancouver Power Company at Coquitlam lake as engineer of the steam tug Norton. For a few days previous to his death Mr. Thompson had complained of feeling ill. The body of the unfortunate engineer was found lying in the bottom of the boat, with the face immersed in the bilge water.

Coroner Captain Pittendrigh was notified and went to the scene and held the inquest. It was found that there was a swelling on the left side of the dead man's neck, and it is presumed that he arose in the morning to start a fire and stumbled, striking his neck against some object with force enough to stun him, then falling face downwards in the bilge water, where he smothered to death. The coroner's jury brought in a verdict to the effect that the deceased met death by drowning as a result of an accident.

This makes the second fatality of a peculiar nature to occur at the lake recently, it being but a short time ago that a peavey fell on a workman, penetrated his breast and killed him.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH.

Kamloops, Oct. 19.—At the inquest into the death of Ernest R. Heywood a verdict of "Accidentally shot by a rifle in his own hand at Mosquito Flat on October 11," was brought in. The evidence was to the effect that deceased and his brother Fred met and the former rested his gun on a rail of the fence. The gun slipped and was discharged, the bullet striking the young man's abdomen. He lived only a few minutes. The body was brought down to this city by canoe. Deceased was twenty-one years of age.

MINERS PROTEST AGAINST POLL TAX

Secretary of Union Before the Commission—Mining Tax Inequitable

Rossland, Oct. 19.—At the Tax Commission sittings held here the first witness was Charles E. Laughlin, secretary of the Rossland Miners' union, which has a membership of 425. Referring to the hardship inflicted by the poll tax he said the average earnings of the working man in Rossland were $78.00 a month and the cost of living for an average family of five was $72.00 a month for groceries, meals, rental, lights and fuel. He did not include clothes, doctors fees and medicine. The union had heard that it was proposed to take off the income tax and to increase the poll tax from $3.00 to $4.00. If they were to increase a tax which pressed heavily already on the working man, who could get only a bare existence and take it off those who were receiving dividends all the time, it was not a fair deal, he said.

Hon. A. E. McPhillips said that witness need not fear that anything of the kind would be done through the agency of that commission. There was a suggestion that people who paid other taxes, either to the municipality or to the province; should be relieved of the poll tax. How did that suit them?

Witness admitted that seemed right, and asked what proportion of the population paid poll tax each year.

He was informed that the revenue was $313,000 and taking the population at 400,000, one person in four paid it.

J. D. McDonald, general superintendent of the West Kootenay Power and Light company, referred to the taxation of water rights. He considered it unjust that companies using so many cubic feet per season under a 50 foot head, should be taxed the same amount as companies using the same number of cubic feet a second under a 100 foot head, as the latter could develop twice the amount of energy. He did not think the amount of horse-power need be considered.

S. G. Blaylock, assistant general manager of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting company of Canada, considered the basis for water power taxation should be on the horse-power developed.

The mineral tax of two per cent. levied upon smelter returns, or the value of the minerals less transportation, treatment and marketing charges, worked out very injustly in its application to low grade mining properties. When it was borne in mind that each ton or ore taken from a mine diminished the value of the mine, the seriousness of the tax was more apparant, as the tax, being arrived at upon smelter values of $5.10 per ton, amounted approximately to 10 per cent. of the profit on the ore. Thus the 10 per cent. was a percentage not only of profits but of invested capital which was being returned.

In place of this the proposition was made that mining companies be taxed as other companies were—income tax upon their profits and that the present exception from real estate and personalty taxes be continued, for the reason interest on capital, but the return of the capital itself, or, at the most, that the mine, buildings and equipment only be subject to realty tax. The Centre Star group in the fiscal year paid $20,447 out of the total mineral tax of $102,000, so the unfair manner was noticeable in which the tax bore on producers of large tonnage of low grade ores.

The recommended change would remove the difficulty, but if the tax was not changed it should at least be re-worded so that difficulties might not arise in the future. While they would prefer the tax to be made on the net income, they would suggest as an alternate a tax of one-half per cent. on the gross value of the ores.

PLUNGED INTO RIVER.

Sling on Cable Way Broke and Horse Dropped—Not Even Scratched.

Vancouver, Oct. 19.—An eighty-foot drop from a cable into the Fraser river was the experience of a horse owned by Messrs. Burns, Jordan & Welch, railway contractors on the Canadian Northern railway from Yale eastward. The animal was being transferred across the Fraser canyon to the railway grade now under construction. It was suspended in a sling, the rope of which broke. The horse, which was blindfolded, plunged hindfeet first into the angry waters and the railway men never expected to see him alive again. Half an hour later the animal, after effecting a landing half a mile below the scene of the accident, was espied slowly making his way along the grade. He was none the worse for the thrilling dive and escaped without a scratch.

Old Jack, as he is known, will be pensioned by his owners after this season's work. He is almost regarded as a member of the firm. He was raised on a ranch near Lethbridge and entered the service of Messrs. Foley, Welch & Stewart sixteen years ago. He has helped build the Crow's Nest Pass railway and many other lines in the west.

KILLED IN THE WOODS.

Vancouver, Oct. 19.—The body of a man named Eric J. Matson, a logger who met with a fatal accident at Alert Bay on October 12, was brought down by the Cassdar.

Matson was struck by the falling limb of a tree which fractured his skull and broke an arm, while he was at work in the woods. Medical aid was immediately sent for, but he died before it arrived. He was a member of the Fraternal Order of Eagles in the town of Aberdeen, Wash., where he had been resident for some time.

PASSING SHOW

Empress Theatre.

To-morrow afternoon will be a special children's matinee at the Empress theatre when the young folks will be able to enjoy the accomplished performance given by Mme. Fifi Ronay's troupe of trained poodle dogs. Will Oakland will be heard at the three performances to-morrow, singing four songs. He is the foremost counter-tenor singer in America and perhaps the world. George A. Beane and Gertrude Stanley offering The Show Girl have been responsible in part for large audiences at the Empress this week, and will be seen to-morrow and to-night also. Marie Dorr, a brilliant caricature comedienne and Powder and Capman song and dance specialists are billed and are the other performers taking a share in a first class show.

Majestic Theatre.

"Wages of War," tells a tale of love, war and a delicate romance between a Northern cavalryman and a Southern beauty. It will be exhibited at the Majestic to-day and to-morrow, together with three other big feature films. It is replete with the pathos of "love deferred," the cantering of troops in marshal uniforms, a sister's sacrifice for the one beloved, and the grand triumphal climax.

"The Indian Brothers," is a Biograph feature film. "Building of the New Line," a railroad story of modern times. For those who like comedy there is some of the Edison brand that will make them laugh every time they remember it. It is called "Betty's Buttons" and "The Silent Tongue." The story of the last one is of a young man who declares he will not marry until he finds a woman with a silent tongue. His cousin, for a joke, pretends to be deaf and dumb, but she is very pretty and attractive.

You and I are but a pair of infinite isolations, with some fellow island a little more or less near to us.—Thackeray.

The Evening Chit-Chat
By Ruth Cameron

I have been thinking to-day of the undercurrents.

No, I do not mean the undercurrent at the seashore that endangers so many lives.

But I do mean a dangerous undercurrent just the same.

The undercurrent of thought, is what I refer to.

You are seated at your desk attending to some task. Theoretically, all your thoughts are upon your work. Actually, only your top thoughts are with your task. For all the time there is a steady undercurrent of thought of other matters going on in your mind.

Sometimes the undercurrent consists of a review of work done; sometimes it relates to the good time you are going to have to-morrow, often it is pondering upon your next season's wardrobe; again it is concerned with something that is going on outside the window. In my own case, I find it is most frequently a cogitation upon what I am going to do next.

If you think that only volatile and lightminded people thus divide their thoughts, please observe yourself the next time you sit down to some task. If you cannot discover any undercurrent in your mind, you may consider yourself quite above the class for which I write, the average folks.

Now, perhaps, you want an explanation of my description of the undercurrent of thought as dangerous. Perhaps you are asking, "What harm can it do if I do have an undercurrent of thought? What objection is there to my thinking of two things at once if I can? What is there dangerous about it?"

The danger, my friend, is simply to your capacity to do the best work of which you are capable, and to do it in the least possible time.

That undertow carries something out to sea, just as surely as the ocean undertow does. And that something is your concentration.

To be sure, there is no harm in your thinking of the work you have done, or the work you are going to do, or of to-morrow's pleasure, or your next season's wardrobe. They are innocent, or even praiseworthy subjects for thought, except when they are thieves. And in this case, that is what they are, since they steal your thoughts from the subject to which they belong.

If the volume of thought which goes into that undercurrent could be combined with the volume of thought which is upon your work, don't you see how much more swiftly and correctly and thoroughly your work would be done?

Of course, it is not the easiest thing in the world to control this undercurrent. But, I believe it can be done. I believe that if you scold yourself severely every time you find that undertow growing powerful, and try with your whole might to bring all your thoughts to bear on what you are doing, you can at least diminish the power and volume of the thought undertow.

Here's wishing you good luck if you care to try.

Please wish me the same.

Mr. Borden and His Cabinet

The Premier.

Hon. Robert Laird Borden, the new Premier of Canada and the new President of His Majesty's Privy Council for Canada, was born at Grand Pre, Nova Scotia, on June 26, 1854, and after serving for some years as a professor in Glenwood University, New Jersey, returned to Canada and was called to the Bar of Nova Scotia in 1878. He was for ten years president of the Nova Scotia Barristers' Society. He was a Liberal in early life, but became a Liberal-Conservative prior to 1896 when he was first elected to the House of Commons as member for Halifax. He was re-elected there in 1900, and upon the retirement of Sir Charles Tupper after his defeat in that year, Mr. Borden was chosen as leader of the Liberal-Conservative party, and has led the Opposition ever since. He was defeated in Halifax in 1904, but found a seat in Carleton through the resignation of Mr. Edward Kidd. In 1908, Mr. Borden was elected in both Halifax and Carleton, but resigned the latter seat, preferring to sit for Halifax, for which he was again re-elected on September 21 last. His wife was Miss Laura Bond of Halifax. He is a member of the Church of England.

Minister of Finance.

Hon. W. T. White, who has been called to the Privy Council as minister of finance, was born in Halton county, Ontario, about 45 years ago, where he had his early education in the public and high schools. He matriculated from Toronto University, where he achieved distinction, taking honors in classics. Subsequently Mr. White was connected with the assessment department of the city of Toronto. He then decided to study law and was articled in the city solicitor's office and was called to the Ontario bar in 1899. Although he came out as gold medallist in law he did not enter upon the practice of the legal profession. Instead he elected to pursue commercial life and was appointed general manager of the National Trust Company. For twelve years past he has been at the head of that company and only two months ago gave up the position to assume the office of vice-president of the company. Mr. White, in his position as an officer of the National Trust, has been connected with many of the most important financial transactions of Canada. During his university course Mr. White devoted himself to journalism and was for some years connected with the Toronto Evening Telegram. Mrs. White was Miss Silverthorne, of Jarvis, Ontario. He is a Methodist.

Minister of Justice.

Hon. Charles Joseph Doherty, K. C., D.C.L., L.L.D., who has been called to the Privy Council as minister of justice, was born in Montreal on May 11, 1855. A graduate of McGill University, he soon won distinction at the Bar. He served for many years as a captain in the 65th Mount Royal Rifles, and saw service with that regiment in the Northwest rebellion of 1885. Appointed a judge of the Supreme Court of Quebec in 1891, he continued on the bench until 1906, when he retired upon a pension. Twice defeated in attempts to be elected to the Quebec Legislature, he was elected to the House of Commons for the St. Anne's division of Montreal in 1908, and at once became one of the foremost lieutenants of Mr. Borden. His wife was Miss Catherine Lucy Barnard. He is a Roman Catholic.

Minister of Public Works.

Hon. Frederick Debartzch Monk, K. C., D.C.L., who has been called to the Privy Council as minister of public works, is a native of Montreal, where he was born on April 6, 1856. A graduate of McGill University, he was called to the Bar in 1878, and was created a Queen's Counsel in 1893. He is professor of constitutional law in the Montreal branch of Laval University. He was first elected to the House of Commons as Conservative member for Jacques Cartier in 1896, and has been re-elected at every election since. He was Opposition leader for the Province of Quebec from 1901 to 1903, but since then has been sort of a free lance in the House, having been the mouthpiece of the Nationalists for the past few years. His wife (who died only a few days ago) was Miss Marie Louise Senecal. He is a Roman Catholic.

Minister of Marine and Fisheries.

Hon. J. D. Hazen, who has been called to the Privy Council as minister of marine and fisheries and naval affairs, was born at Oromoco, Sunbury county, New Brunswick, on June 6, 1860. He was educated at the University of New Brunswick, where he graduated in 1879. He was elected to the House of Commons as a Conservative member for St. John City and county in 1891, but was defeated in 1896 by Colonel Tucker. Three years later, in 1899, he was elected to the New Brunswick Legislature for Sunbury county and was at once chosen as leader of the Conservative opposition in that body. He led his party to victory in March, 1908, and was sworn in as Premier and Attorney-General on March 24 of that year. He is a member of the Church of England. His wife was Miss Ada Tibbits, of Fredericton.

Minister of Inland Revenue.

Hon. William Bruno Nantel, K. C., who has been called to the Privy Council as minister of inland revenue, was born in St. Jerome, Terrebonne, Que., on Nov. 8, 1857. He was a graduate of Laval University, Montreal. He was mayor of St. Jerome for six years. He was first elected to the House of Commons from Terrebonne in 1908 and was re-elected last month. He is a Roman Catholic. His wife was Miss Georgiana Gauthier, of St. Jerome.

Secretary of State.

Hon. William James Roche, M. D., who has been called to the Privy Council as secretary of state, was born at Clandeboye, Ont., on November 30, 1859. He attended Trinity Medical College, Toronto, for three years but took his final course at the Western University of London, Ont., where he was the first medical graduate of that institution. He moved to Minnedosa, Man., in 1883, and has practised there ever since. He was elected as the Conservative member for Marquette in the House of Commons in 1896 and has retained that seat ever since. He had been assistant chief whip of the Conservative Opposition for ten years. He is a member of the Church of England. His wife was Miss Annie E. Cook, of Toronto.

Minister of Agriculture.

Hon. Martin Burrill, who has been called to the Privy council as minister of agriculture, was born at Faringdon, Berks, England, on October 15, 1858. He came to Canada in 1883 and located for some years in the Niagara peninsula, where he engaged in fruit farming, but in 1900 he removed to British Columbia where he has built up large and profitable orchards. He was mayor of Grand Forks in 1903 and was first elected to the House of Commons from Yale and Cariboo in 1908, being re-elected last month. He is a member of the Church of England. His wife was Miss Sarah B. Armstrong, of Swindon, Wiltshire, England.

Minister of Interior.

Hon. Robert Rogers, who has been called to the Privy Council as minister of the interior, was born at Lakefield, Argenteuil, Quebec, on March 2, 1864. He went west when 18 years old, and started in business at Charlevoix, Manitoba, as a general store-keeper, afterwards going into grain buying and mining. His first essay at political honors was in 1896 when he was defeated for the House of Commons in Lisgar by R. L. Richardson, then and now editor of the Winnipeg Tribune. But his chance came in 1899 when he was elected to the Manitoba legislature for Manitou. He was given a seat at the executive council without portfolio in the Roblin cabinet, in October, 1900, and was given the portpolio of public works in the following December, a position which he has since held. He is a member of the Church of England. His wife was Miss Aurelia Regina Medymer.

Minister of Labor.

Hon. Thomas William Crothers, K.C., who has been called to the Privy Council as minister of labor, was born at Northport, Prince Edward county, Ont., on January 1, 1850. He graduated at Albert College, Belleville, and after teaching school for several years, began the practice of law at St. Thomas, where he has since resided. He was a candidate for the seat of West Elgin in the Ontario legislature in 1879, but was defeated. He was first elected to the House of Commons for West Elgin in 1908 and was re-elected last month. Chairman of the Ontario government commission which investigated the cost of school books, he created a new record in Canadian politics by refusing to accept any remuneration for his services. He is a Methodist. His wife was Miss Mary E. Burns, of St. Thomas.

Minister of Trade and Commerce.

Hon. George Eulas Foster, P.C., B.A., D.C.L., LL.D., who has been appointed minister of trade and commerce, is the only member of the new cabinet who did not require to take the oath as a member of the Privy Council, he having been a Privy Councillor since 1885. Born in Carleton county, New Brunswick, on September 3, 1847, he graduated with honors at the University of New Brunswick in 1868. From 1871 to 1879 he was professor of classics and ancient literature in the University of New Brunswick, studying also at Edinburgh, Scotland, and Heidelberg, Germany. He was first elected to the House of Commons for King's county in 1882, and remained as the member for that county until 1896, when he was returned for York. He was defeated in St. John city in 1900, and in North Ontario in 1903, but was elected as member for North Toronto in 1904 and has been twice re-elected since. He was minister of marine and fisheries from 1885 until 1888, when he became minister of finance, which office he retained until the Conservative party went out of power in 1896. He is an ardent Imperialist, and is the originator of the resolution upon which the Canadian naval policy was based. He is a Free Christian Baptist. His wife was Miss Addie Davis.

Minister of Railways.

Hon. Frank Cochrane, who has been called to the Privy Council as minister of railways, was born at Clarenceville, Quebec, on November 18, 1852. He moved some 30 years ago to Sudbury, Ont., and built up important business interests there. Upon the formation of the Ontario ministry by Hon. (now Sir James P.) Whitney in 1905, Mr. Cochrane, though not a member of the legislature, was called to the cabinet and created the minister of lands and mines, which position he has now resigned to accept Mr. Borden's invitation to enter the federal cabinet. He was first elected to the Ontario legislature for East Nipissing in 1905, but has sat for Sudbury since 1908. He is a Methodist. His wife was Miss Alice Levina Dunlop.

Postmaster General.

Hon. Louis Philippe Pelletier, B.A., LL.D., who has been called to the Privy Council as postmaster general, was born at Trois Pistales, Quebec, in 1857. He was the Prince of Wales medalist with honors at Laval University, winning the Marquis of Lorne medal Ste. Anne's College, and graduated at Quebec the same year. At once he assumed a leading part in the Conservative party, and after being elected president of the National Conservative Association of the province of Quebec, founded La Justice newspaper. Twice unsuccessful in his attempts to enter the legislative assembly, in Temiscouata in 1886 and in Three Rivers in 1887, he was called to the legislative council of Quebec in 1888, but he resigned almost immediately, and was elected to the assembly by acclamation for Dorchester county. He was provincial secretary in the De Boucherville government in 1891, and was attorney-general in the Flynn administration in 1896-1897. He was defeated in Dorchester in 1904, and again in 1908, and also met defeat in Lotbiniere in the same year. He was elected in September last for Quebec county. He was an officer in the 9th

MAY DIE FROM INJURIES.

Astoria, Ore., Oct. 20.—While driving along an elevated roadway at Warrenton, a few miles west of here Wednesday, Robert Wilbur and Edward Reed were probably fatally injured when their automobile skidded through the railing and dropped to the rocks about 15 feet below. The car turned over in its fall and both men were held prisoners beneath the car until a number of men, attracted by their cries, could lift the machine sufficiently to release them.

Quebec Voltigeurs. He was one of the leading boilers from the Conservative party in the Nationalist movement which swept over Quebec after the execution of Louis Riel, and has since been actively identified with the Nationalist wing of the party. He also is a Roman Catholic. His wife was Miss Adele Lelievre.

Minister of Militia.

Col. the Hon. Samuel Hughes, who has been called to the Privy Council as minister of militia, was born in Darlington county, Durham, Ont., on January 8, 1853, son of John Hughes and Caroline Laughlin. He married in 1872 Miss Carline J. Preston and, she having died, Miss Mary Burke, daughter of H. W. Burke, ex-M. P., became his second wife. He was educated in the schools of Toronto and Toronto University, and was lecturer in English language, literature and history in Toronto Collegiate Institute until 1885, when he purchased the Lindsay Warder, which he edited until 1897. He was also prominently identified with amateur athletics, especially with lacrosse, being one of the best exponents of the national game. Col. Hughes has been in the active militia of Canada since his fourteenth year. He declined the position of deputy minister of militia in 1891 and of adjutant-general for Canada in 1895, was appointed lieutenant-colonel commanding the 45th battalion in 1897 and took part in the Queen's jubilee celebration in London that year. He is president of the Dominion Rifle Association, president of the small arms committee of Canada, chairman of the board of visitors of the Royal Military College, and railway intelligence officer of the headquarters staff. He served in the Fenian raid, 1870. Since 1872 he has strongly advocated and made personal offers of colonial military assistance to the Empire in Imperial wars and personally offered to raise corps for the Egyptian and Soudanese campaigns, the Afghan frontier war and the Transvaal war. He visited Australia and New Zealand in 1897-98 in the interest of colonial assistance in Imperial wars and served in the South African war 1899-1900 with great distinction, holding high commissions and being several times mentiond in dispatches. He was unsuccessful for the Commons for North Victoria in 1891, but was elected at the by-election in 1892 and re-elected in 1896 and 1900; and was also elected for Victoria and Haliburton in 1904, 1908 and 1911. He attended this year's Imperial conference as special military adviser to Sir Frederick Borden. He is a member of the Methodist church, and resides at Lindsay, Ont.

Minister of Customs.

Hon. John D. Reid, M.D., who has been called to the Privy Council as minister of customs, is M. P. for Grenville, for which he was first elected at the general election of 1891. He was returned at the general elections in 1896, 1900, 1904, 1908 and 1911. Dr. Reid was born at Prescott, Ont., on January 1, 1859, and is of Irish parentage. After acquiring his early education in the common schools, he took up the study of medicine at Queen's University, where he received his degree of Doctor of Medicine. Aside from his practice Dr. Reid has found time to devote to several different industrial enterprises. For seven years he was the manager of the Edwardsburg Starch Company and for four years directed the operations of the Imperial Starch Company, both being highly successful concerns.

Leader of Senate.

Hon. James A. Lougheed, K. C., who has been called to the Privy Council as minister without portfolio, was born at Brampton, Ont., on September 1, 1854, and resided in Toronto until 1882, when he settled in Calgary. He was called to the Senate from Alberta in 1889, being the first representative of that province in the Upper House, and when Sir Mackenzie Bowell resigned the leadership of the Conservative party in the Senate in 1907, Mr. Lougheed was selected as his successor and has continued to act in that capacity ever since. He is one of the legal representaives of the Canadian Pacific railway at Calgary.

Without Portfolio.

Hon. Albert Edward Kemp, who has been called to the Privy Council as minister without portfolio, was born at Clarenceville, Quebec, on August 11, 1858. He is a manufacturer of tinned ware in Toronto. He was elected to the House of Commons for East Toronto in 1900 and re-elected in 1904, was defeated in 1908, but re-elected last month. He is a past president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. He is a Methodist. His wife was Miss Wilson of Montreal.

Without Portfolio.

Hon. George Halsey Perley, B.A., who has been called to the Privy Council as minister without portfolio, happened to be born in Lebanon, New Hampshire, on September 12, 1857. When he was quite young his father, the late W. G. Perley, from 1887 to 1891, Conservative M. P. for Ottawa city, moved to Ottawa. The new minister was educated at the old Ottawa Grammar School (now the Collegiate Institute.) Afterwards he went to the famous St. Paul's School at Concord, New Hampshire, and later proceeded to Harvard University, where he graduated in 1878. He was chairman of the committee which administered the relief funds after the great fire in Hull and Ottawa in 1900. He met defeat twice before he won political honors, having been defeated in Russell in 1900 and in Argenteuil in 1902; but he won the seat for Argenteuil, and he has kept it ever since. He was chief whip of the opposition for the past three years, and was the chief manager of the campaign which brought the Conservatives to victory on September 21. His wife (who died a few years ago) was Miss Annie Hespeler Bowlby. He is a member of the Church of England.

RADIUM FOR GOUT.

New Method of Applying Radio-Activity in Treatment.

Appliances for bringing the healing emanations of radium within easy reach of the public are the chief novelties of the medical exhibition at the Royal Horticultural Hall, London.

In a velvet-curtained sanctuary the "Radiogen Emanatorium," an apparatus intended chiefly for the treatment of gouty or rheumatic patients, was being shown to a continuous stream of medical practitioners. A current of oxygen, passing through a group of cylinders in which a radio-active substance is contained, sets free emanations of radium, thereby charging the air of the surrounding chamber. The apparatus shown is on its way to one of the London hospitals, where it will be set up for use in a small air-tight chamber accommodating six persons. The patients inhale the emanations for one or two hours daily.

The second radium apparatus, also for sufferers from rheumatism and gout, closely resembles an ordinary glass filter. In the lower compartment is a porcelain chamber containing an insoluble radium salt. When the chambers are filled with pure water the radium emanations or gases are dissolved in the water, which the patients drink according to the physicians' prescription. The strength of the radium water thus prepared is claimed to be from ten to twenty times as great as that from the strongest natural springs in Austria. The apparatus may be hired by the patient.

A simple test of the purity of milk is shown at the stall of Messrs. Davies & Sons, the dairy experts. A measured quantity of milk is poured through a filtering arrangement containing a disc of fine cotton wool. All gross impurities are retained as a sediment on the disc. The apparatus, which is used as a test of milk cleanliness in Messrs. Davies' laboratory is worthy of a place in every private household.

Artificial noses and ears are exhibited at one stall. Rubber ears are fixed on with glue and then painted to suit the patient's complexion. Artificial noses are fixed on in the same way, or they may be held in position by the eyeglasses of the patient.

Although Vienna contains a far smaller population than Berlin, it occupies nearly three times as much ground.

TROUBLE IN MEXICO.

While So-Called Revolt is Not Regarded Seriously, Government Troops Are in Readiness.

Mexico City, Oct. 20.—Though the so-called revolt in Tabasso and Southern Yucatan is not regarded generally as important, the federal government and population of the province are in a panicky condition. Troops are held at Merida, the capital of Yucatan, with a train ready to transport them to disaffected points.

There is great excitement over a rumor that a mysterious ship landed arms and ammunition on the Yucatan coast.

From Mazatlan comes the news that General Banderas, the erstwhile self-styled governor of that town, is, with others, collecting troops and guns in Culiacan Rosales to resist the Federals, who are going there to pacify the state Sinaloa.

The election returns thus far give Pino Suarez 8,238 votes, President de la Barra 4,956 and Dr. Vasquez Gomez 2,607 out of a total of 16,004 cast for vice-president. Two states and two territories have not yet reported.

OPIUM DEALER IS CAUGHT WITH GOODS

For the uninitiated the police court this morning had an interesting object lesson to impart. Ging, a young Chinaman, was arraigned on a charge of having a quantity of opium in his possession, and as he was arrested with the goods on him, so to speak, there was nothing for him to do but to plead guilty, pay the $25 fine which was imposed and depart on his way in order to make up the deficit thus made in his exchequer, a possibility which several of the police officers credited him with being able to accomplish in about half a day with the aid of the dream potion which brought him into trouble.

The arrest of Ging was made by Detectives Murray and Hutchison, who were making a friendly call on their "clients" in the Chinatown district. Ging lives at 564 Fisguard street, and on arriving there the peculiar aroma of the boiled poppy attracted them inside. There they found Ging lying on his bed endeavoring vally to conceal a can containing the drug. That particular can was partially full but others lying on the floor were intact. Realising that they had made a capture the detectives picked up everything in sight, including Ging, and brought them to the police station. Included in the exhibits—all of which by the way were confiscated—were a number of clam shells in which, it is alleged, the dream drug is sold to smokers at the standard price of ten cents.

The shell accommodates not more than sufficient to make one decent-sized pill, so that the vendor stands a great chance of making a fortune in a few days if the craze is strong and the police are not wise. There was also a little spirit lamp before which the drug is cooked prior to being smoked. This presumably was one of the personal comforts of Ging himself. There was also the inevitable pipe, a rangy, unsavory instrument of self torture. Arrayed on the court table the various parts made an interesting study.

The law under which the case was brought limits the fine to $50, and the imprisonment to three months, but it is a question is such an imposition as the one made in the case of Ging will have any material effect. In fact the full fine, minus the imprisonment, is regarded by many competent police authorities as wholly inadequate for the purpose of putting a stop to the pernicious practice. With the demand for opium prevailing, and the possibilities for obtaining it cheaply (when you want anything badly it is cheap at any price—till you get it) it is not likely that a small fine will have very much effect upon the business.

C. J. McRae was fined $20 for exceeding the speed limit in his motor car. He pleaded guilty.

C. Brassey was fined $15 for driving his wagon over a boulevard.

BLANCHARD STREET CORNERS ARE SOLD

North-East and South-East Lots at Broughton Change Hands for $76,000

Two important realty deals totalling $76,000 have been made this week on Blanchard street, at the corner of Broughton street, and rumor is rife that the site now occupied by the Aberdeen boarding house will be occupied by a new Victoria opera house as soon as the building can be constructed.

The Aberdeen was sold a few days ago, and it is reported that it was bought for a theatrical syndicate which proposes to erect a play-house there. The price paid is $38,000.

This morning the opposite corner, the northeast, of Blanchard and Broughton streets, was sold at the same price as that reported paid for the Aberdeen property, $38,000.

The second sale, this morning, is held by realty men as indicating that the first sale portends something big for the southeast corner, whether a theatre or building of a different kind.

CHARGE AGAINST DOCTOR.

Tacoma, Wash., Oct. 20.—Miss Dorothea Williamson, the wealthy English woman who was removed in an almost dying condition from the Hazzard institute at Olalla last July, will take the witness stand to-morrow for the first time against Dr. Linda Burfield Hazzard, the Seattle starvation specialist, in the Superior court at Port Orchard. Miss Williamson's recovery from the starvation treatment is practically complete, and it is believed she will suffer no ill effects from the experience.

The announcement that Miss Williamson would go to Port Orchard and take the witness stand was made today by her guardian, Vice-Consul C. E. Lucien Agassiz. It will be the first time the two women have met face to face since Miss Williamson was rescued from the institute by her old nurse, Miss Margaret Conway, but she is not afraid to measure glances with the woman who is accused of murdering her sister Claire Williamson, for financial gain.

ENGINEER COMES BACK WITH ANSWER

HIS REPLY WILL COVER 30 FOOLSCAP PAGES

Suspension or No Suspension Will Be Settled To-night—Excitement Anticipated

To-night's session of the city council should prove a banner one in the way of interesting proceedings, interesting in a visual or physical sense as against the deeper intrinsic sense of work and value. City Engineer Smith will table his reply to the indictment of the mayor, and as it is common knowledge at the city hall that it covers almost as many sheets of foolscap as his worship does years, and contains as many charges against the civic head as the indictment which caused its existence charged against himself, the board of aldermen will be called upon to exercise their patience for a spell before pitching into the battle which must end either in the defeat of the engineer or the defeat of the mayor on this point.

It is possible that his worship may have the courtesy extended to him of being allowed to peruse the voluminous document before it is presented to the council, but the aldermen will in all probability hear it for the first time from the lips of the clerk when the session is opened. What will be the fate of the reports, that is the mayor's and the engineer's impeaching one another "to the top of their bent" is a question for the aldermen to decide. How they will decide immediately is a question upon which there can be little room for doubt from their recent vote of confidence in the engineer; they will decide for him in all likelihood, but how that decision will ultimately work out if the mayor carries out his announced intention of suspending the official in question is another matter altogether.

In addition to the discussion on the engineering situation, which is likely to absorb the major part of the session, if not all of it, there is a heavy agenda of business to be gone through. A number of important local improvement bylaws are down for consideration, and a new paving contract embracing a number of streets is also billetted. The streets upon which asphalt paving and other improvements are slated are as follows:

Belmont avenue from Pembroke street to Edmonton road; Bowlsley place; Camosun street from Pandora avenue to Yates street; Manchester road from Gorge road to Burnside road; Amphion street from Leighton road northerly to the tennis club courts, and permanent sidewalks; Vining street from Pandora avenue to Belmont avenue, and permanent sidewalks; Hulton street from Leighton road to Bourchier street, and permanent walks; Lee avenue from Leighton road to Fort street, and permanent walks; permanent sidewalk on west side of Foul Bay road from Leighton road to Fort street; permanent walks on both sides of Courtney street and removing trees from off the north side of street; boulevards on both sides of Vining street from Pandora avenue to Belmont avenue.

Ald. Peden is also to the fore with a proposal to put the upkeep of the Ross Bay cemetery on a self-sustaining basis. It calls for a uniform annual contribution (to be fixed) which will be used as a fund for maintenance.

MUSICAL CLUB CONCERT.

At the second concert of the amateur series given by the Ladies' Musical Club, Saturday afternoon, October 21, the programme will be devoted to modern composers, with the exception of two members in which Mr. Rimes, by request, will intrepret Chopin.

The programme, which is given below, is distinctly alluring, and contains numbers by that happy combination of former favorites and newer performers which has made the concerts given by this club so justly appreciated.

This concert will be given in the ballroom of the Alexandra Club at 3.30 o'clock, and it is especially requested that those attending will remember to bring their tickets, as these must be presented at the door to secure admittance. The piano used will be the same one used at the Eames-Gogorza concert. The programme is as follows:

STEEL BRIDGES FOR CANADIAN NORTHERN

Ten Will Be Erected Along the Route Between Csco and Kamloops

Vancouver, Oct. 20.—The C. N. R. has awarded to Messrs. Waddell and Harrington, civil engineers of Kansas City, a contract for designing and superintending the construction of ten steel bridges along the route between Cisco and Kamloops. Their total cost will amount to about $1,100,000. There will be two crossings of the Fraser, seven of the main Thompson river and one of the North Thompson river. The Fraser will be bridged just above the C. P. R. bridge at Cisco and also at a point a short distance below Lytton.

Most of these bridges will be supported on concrete piers, but several of them may be arch or cantilever affairs.

J. A. L. Waddell, the senior member of the firm which also designed the three new bridges across False creek in this city, will leave here to-night to make an examination of the various approaches preliminary to preparing detailed plans.

With the award of this contract Messrs. Waddell and Harrington are now carrying out in Canada and the United States contracts totalling $14,500,000.

TROOPS LANDED AFTER BOMBARDMENT

Benghasi, Tripoli, Oct. 20.—The Italian fleet under Rear-admiral Aubrey bombarded this city yesterday and landed four thousand men, who after a brisk battle occupied a portion of the town. The greater part of the troops, however, camped on the beach last night.

The Turks refused to surrender and made a stubborn resistance.

General Delarey; but Delarey treacherously disappointed him by mysteriously vanishing while Sam within his guarded tent was dreaming of the hour when Boers, their knees in suppliance bent, should tremble at his power. The Hon. Colonel has long annually renewed in parliament his favorite motion that Canada is an integral part of a country separated by 3,000 miles of salt water, and that a sort of political embankment should be constructed to make them continentally one. In short he is an Imperial Federationist of the true-bluest Orange brand. He attudinizes like the Western Man in Dickens's American Notes, "When the sun shines on me it shines, it does, it don't glimmer, it don't." Samuel is a good deal of a man, for all that. When an Old Country-imported commanding general of militia ventured to chide Hughes the colonel for what Hughes the M. P. had said in parliament, Sam dropped on that general like a ton of native brick, squabashed him in controversy, and vindicated his own military and political spirits at once. He often lambasted his own party for vilifying the Ross rifle, made in Canada for Canadians, and experience proved him right, for the rifle made immense scores at all sorts of targets in England and elsewhere. When the colonel means that a man is a liar he utters that simple word emphatically, and be hanged to parliamentary rules of debate! When he has a quarrel with a clergyman he whacks him without respect for his cloth—Sam regards the man as having shed it in the act of disagreeing with Sam, whom Sam regards as infallible, far more so than the pope. Many people like him, and he heartily agrees with their taste in the matter. It is delicious to think of this Orange warrior sitting cheek by jowl in one cabinet with Mr. Monk, the close chum of Mr. Bourassa, who are both as deeply committed against all centralizationist-Imperialism as Sam is to it.

Mr. Borden's achievement of enlisting Mr. Monk staves off danger of early disintegration of the present apparent majority against Laurier and reciprocity. There is no more honorable, devout, chivalric gentleman than Mr. Monk. He was read out of the Tory party about two years ago. Then he forsook his previous seat beside Mr. Borden. He refused thereafter to attend the party caucus. All this happened because Mr. Monk opposed creation of a Canadian navy on any lines not absolutely conserving the autonomy of Canada. He held, as both Canadian parties long did, that Canada should not be automatically involved in British wars on the old continents. He was not wholly opposed to a coast defence. But a sea-going Canadian navy implicated with that of Great Britain was as poison to him and his fidus Achates, Mr. Henri Bourassa. On this line they fought in Quebec as "Nationalistes." They enabled the anti-Laurierites to carry twenty-seven seats in sixty-four. Without those twenty-seven seats Premier Borden would be in a bare majority, and soon done for.

It is regarded as morally certain that Mr. Borden must have given pledges to Mr. Monk that "Nationaliste" navy ideas will rule the cabinet. Mr. Monk is too honorable a man to desert Bourassa for the sake of office. How Hon. Sam Hughes and other cabinet howlers against Monk principles will endure an anti-jingo navy policy is a question that excites wonder. This correspondence has ever held that Monk and Bourassa were right in the main, and truly conservative in opposing centralizationist Imperialism, which is apparently a fetich of Mr. R. L. Borden's Ontario and other English-speaking cohorts. If Mr. Monk—who is Catholic, half French and a most upright chevalier of eminent family—convert the Tories to commonsense in this business, he and they will do good work for Canada. One device open to them is that of proposing a referendum on the navy question. Ontario and other "Grits" are roaring against the proposal. It seems to me an excellent one. If referendum questions were fairly put, so that the electors could clearly testify whether they desire Canada to have a coast defence armament, or a sea-going one, or one under direction of Ottawa, or one under direction of the London admiralty, then the referendum vote might and would settle a troublesome business. The verdict would be accepted by the Quebec Nationalistes, or so they have alleged. It would have to be accepted all round. To oppose a referendum on this matter would put the opposition in a bad and dangerous attitude—that of seeming to wish the new ministry and the country also to be embarrassed by the difficulty of ministerial decision in ignorance of what may really be the electoral mind.

Altogether the Borden ministry is respectable. It fairly represents the seemingly discordent elements that combined to beat Sir Wilfrid. It does not look likely to be a happy family, but coherence comes of office and compromise, so it is not obvious that the family can't be happy. Ministers can swallow one another's opposing principles a little and be the better for the pills. They are agreed in rank protectionism, a great bond of union. It is a Big Interests' ministry. One to be judged by what proposals and works come of its councils. The important portfolio of justice is well occupied by Mr. C. J. Doherty, an Irish and Catholic Canadian, eminent as a lawyer, ex-judge of a high court, a man who was so wise in his treatment of the navy issue, so reasonably sympathetic with diverse honorable views, that he seems likely to be the amalgam of the cabinet on this and other matters.

True, it is impossible to look at the composite of rampant Orange centralizationist jingoes, and Monk "Nationalistes" without some twinkling of the eye. Politics ever did make strange bedfellows. In this aspect the Borden cabinet reminds one of the wondrous creature that Walter Savage Landor, Jr., heard of in his travels in Asia Minor. A nomad sheik told him the tradition. "Of old," said the patriarch, "when Alexander the Great traversed these regions, he lost eighty thousand soldiers in a singular way. They went to gaze on a Marvel that used to inhabit about here. It was a creature so wondrously made that nobody could look at it without dying of laughter. Alexander feared the Attraction would destroy his entire army. So he placed guards to prevent his soldiers going to see the Thing. Then he sent for Aristotle, and asked his advice. Aristotle invented a remedy. He caused a great mirror to be constructed. This was pushed forward toward the Wondrous Animal until it saw itself. Straightway it expired of laughing at its own image." Fortunately for our new ministry there is no Aristotle in mirror here. Also they probably are gifted to see themselves as quite different from the spectacle they present to opponents, who suffer the disadvantage of laughing on the wrong side of their mouths.

Mr. Borden has succeeded in his first hard task, that of getting the Hughes and Monk factions to lie down together under his wand. He must have pledged them to stay down long enough to avoid disruption of the cabinet by a want of confidence motion. This betokens no small skill in the new premier. He may carry on till the next general elections, say two years hence. The more the Orangemen eat the Nationalist leek the more savory and digestible they will find it. It is a good Canadian vegetable. The ministry, like all others, is not likely to be killed by its enemies, but by its propensities. It is a joy to tariff-grafters, and this at a time when Canadian, like American and British opinion, is seemingly set for death to tariff-graft. Mr. Borden comes in as an enemy of reciprocity. His friends say it is dead. But reciprocity can't be dead unless Washington kill it by taking the good, generous, magnanimous, friendly, Christian-like reciprocity act off the United States statute book. Every week it stays there will be a liberal education to the Canadian people. They are already daily reading market reports proving what has been foregone by the Canadian farmer, who is the foundation of all the wealth and prosperity of the tariff-grafters and money-mongers of Ontario, who gammoned the farmer into rejection of the boon, mainly by raving of Laurier as Catholic, French, papal, Eucharistic, and the instigator of the abominable "Ne temere" decree.

These clouds will pass. Laurier is confident. He is more extinguished than Gladstone frequently was. One election can't snuff out a great and beneficent statesman. He has been friendly to Americans in fair weather and foul. Now is the time for them to emulate his patience, disregard the shin-kicking Tory children of Canada, and keep the noble pact on the statute book. That is the way to still forever the anger and horror that would be roused in the States and England if the people there were shown the diabolical cartoons and editorials by which the tariff-grafters here incited electors to give Toryism a temporary and but apparent triumph.

G. T. P. TOWNSITE OF FRASER LAKE IS FAVORED SPOT

The general topography of the townsite, which is remarkably level and excellently drained, is such that lends itself very favorably for town building. There are no rocks or bluffs to interfere, and there is a valuable water power adjacent to the townsite which, when developed, will furnish sufficient electricity, not only for lighting purposes, but for any industry that may require power for operation.

The selling agents for lots in Fraser Lake are the Western Lands, Limited, corner of Broad and View Sts., Victoria, and deposits are now being taken on account of purchases.

Since the announcement of sale made a few days ago, enquiries have been steadily flowing in, and yesterday the staff was kept busy answering telegrams and mail enquiries.

Local buyers have a distinct advantage over far-away purchasers, because they can be sure of delivery of their selection.

The Western Lands, Limited, has received intimation from its eastern connection that Winnipeg buyers will take fully half of the lots, the balance will be sold throughout British Columbia and the south.

CAUSE OF MEASLES.

Successful Experiments Conducted By United States Government Physicians.

The cause of measles has been discovered as a result of a series of experiments lasting a year. The physicians who made the tests are, says the New York Times, John F. Anderson, director of the Hygienic Laboratory, Washington, D. C., and past assistant surgeon John Goldberger. The disease is caused by a virus which is to be found in the blood of those suffering from it.

The experiments were carried out with monkeys. These are inoculated with blood from measles patients and it was found that the animals were susceptible to the disease.

"These observers state," says The Medical Record, "that their first experiment was performed on June 5, 1910, with some blood obtained from a case of measles at the Willard Parker hospital, New York. Two monkeys were inoculated: in each case a slight rise in temperature was noted on the eleventh day, the significance of which was not appreciated at the time. A second attempt was made with similar results.

"On April 28 of this year a third attempt was made, three rhesus monkeys being inoculated. Once more, as regards temperature reaction, results were obtained essentially like those of former experiments. In the case of one monkey an eruption and other symptoms resembling those of measles occurred.

"On May 16 last a fourth attempt was made; two monkeys were inoculated, and at the same time the monkey which had exhibited symptoms on the former occasion was reinoculated with a view of testing him immunity and obtaining light on the previous reaction.

"Ten days after inoculation, this animal developed a well-marked eruption, which in two days became generalized. In seven days this had died out. Desquamation was noticed only on the scalp and temple. The monkey which had been reinoculated showed no reaction whatever.

"Blood aspired from the heart of the two animals which showed reaction was used for the inoculation of four fresh rhesus monkeys. All showed reaction to a greater or less extent. Anderson and Goldberger believe they are justified in concluding that they have demonstrated the susceptibility of the rhesus monkey to inoculation with the blood of human measles drawn from the general circulation early in the eruptive stage."

The physicians continued their experiments and discovered that there is a period of ineffectivity of the blood beginning at least just before and continuing for about twenty-four hours after the first appearance of the eruption. After this period, the infectivity of the blood is greatly reduced, and progressively diminishes.

Not satisfied entirely with the results of these experiments, the investigators sought to determine the exact nature of the virus of measles. They published the results of the latter series of experiments last Saturday in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

First, they sought to discover whether or not the virus would pass through a filter. In this case, they diluted blood-scrum from a measles patient with three times its volume of salt solution. The whole was passed through a Berkfeld filter. They were able to loculate a monkey with the resulting solution, hence they conclude that the virus is capable of passing through a Berkfeld filter.

The next experiment was undertaken to determine whether or not the virus could be dried. They found that it resisted desiccation for twenty-four hours or more.

Next, they made experiments to discover whether or not heat would destroy the virus. It lost its infectivity after being subjected to a temperature of 55 centrigrade for fifteen minutes.

The virus lost none of its virulence after being kept at a freezing temperature for twenty-five hours. They determined also that it probably retained some of its infectivity after twenty-four hours at 15 centigrade.
